BUNKO GAME IS BROUGHT TO END

Arrest of Roy Murphy Brings to Light Clever Scheme to De-Fraud People.

GETS $360 FROM THE COUNTY

Sells Gasoline for 11½ Cents per Gallon and Collects Money in Advance.

With the arrest here today of Roy Murphy, whose place of residence is unknown, a clever bunko game was brought to an end and no doubt many farmers were saved from a swindle. Murphy was arrested on an affidavit filed by W. A. Alexander, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. He admitted his guilt when arraigned before Squire Kratzer and was bound over to the circuit court under $1000 bond, which he was unable to secure.

Murphy's game was about the boldest and most daring ever pulled off on the people here. He posed as a representative of the Consumers Anti-Trust Oil Company, which company, as far as can be learned, was confined strictly to the accused man. His graft was selling gasoline and oil in barrel quantities to automobile owners.

His prices were so alluring that he secured $363.10 in Rush county money before he was caught. The gasoline Murphy sold was for cash and delivery to be made in the future. His price for 68 to 72 test gasoline was eleven and one-half cents per gallon. When it is taken into consideration that this grade of gasoline wholesales for 18 cents a gallon, it is no wonder Murphy did a big business. He sold fifty and one hundred gallon quantities right and left and with each order collected in advance.

W. A. Alexander gave his $17.25 for 150 gallons. The transaction occurred some time ago and when pushed for the delivery Murphy kept putting Mr. Alexander off. He promised to have the gasoline here last Saturday and when it failed to come Mr. Alexander became suspicious. It developed that Murphy intended to supply his orders through the Tiona Refining Company of Indianapolis and communication with this firm revealed the fact that Murphy was not their representative but had ordered one barrel of gasoline from them.

Murphy continued operations and this morning Mr. Alexander determined to make him show his hand. A representative of the Tiona people was sent here from Connersville and Murphy was arrested. The representative of the oil company stated Murphy was in no way connected with his firm and at the price he sold the gasoline they could not supply the orders even if purchased in train lots.

When arrested Murphy had a check from W. A. Mull for $46, which he secured this morning in payment for 400 gallons of gasoline. Murphy has been in this city since the first of the month and had made many friends. When seen at the jail this afternoon Murphy explained his plan of operation to Mr. Alexander. He stated that a few months ago he operated in Decatur, Ill., and purchased gasoline for 9½ cents a gallon, selling it for 11½, thus giving him a margin of two cents.

Murphy said he intended to contract with the Tiona company for the oil but had neglected to do so. For some unknown reason he had neglected to take into consideration the advance in price of gasoline and even if he intended to deliver it, could not have bought it any place for the sum he was selling it for here. Besides dealing in gasoline Murphy took several orders for kerosine, selling 100 gallons for $4, the money always in advance. Murphy carried an order book and the proposition to all outward appearances seemed to be on the square.

JOKE ON CROWD OF JOKESTERS WORKS

Milroy Young People Who go Out on Serenading Escapade Have to Walk Home.

HAY WAGON HIDDEN IN FIELD

The crowd of jokers from Milroy was responsible for a number of Milroy people walking all the way from the home of Hubert Innis, a distance of three miles to Milroy last night with the temperature hovering around forty degrees. Mr. and Mrs. Innis surprised their friends around here by pulling off a wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Parrish, northeast of here, Tuesday evening, September third. Not to be outdone, a crowd of Milroy young people romped down to Hubert Innis' house in automobiles and on a hay wagon last night for a little serenade party.

A gang of roisters heard of the escapade and decided to play a joke on the jokesters. They hustled down to Innis', hid the hay wagon in a nearby field and disabled one of the automobiles. The hay wagon was not found until the morning, and most of the party had to walk home in the cold, cold night. A few stayed all night at Innis'. The switch key was stolen from the automobile, but the owner made an improvised one out of wire, and was able to run it back to town.

WHO'S TO HELP SHOW IN PERIL?

Will Rushville Come Forward and Answer Distress Signal Sent by Directors of Event?

TONIGHT IS TIME TO DO IT

Doom of Annual Fall Show Will be Sealed if Somebody Doesn't Rescue It.

Last night announcement was made of the S. O. S. signal sent out by the horse show directors. Today the white flag of distress is unfurled and is being waved madly.

It is imperative that every Rushville business man, and any others who are interested in the city's welfare turn out tonight for the special meeting called to consider the proposition as presented yesterday by the directors of the fall event.

The horse show is in the balance. More than fifteen hundred dollars is needed to run the event. That is the least amount possible to make the horse show as good as it was last year. And it would not be good ethics to have one lot as good. For the 1911 event the merchants and other interested citizens subscribed $1556. This year, after straining themselves considerably, representatives of the show were able to get promises for the meagre sum of $726.

The meeting is not called tonight for the members of the Retail Merchants Association alone. It is for every man, woman and child in Rushville who wants to see the horse show go off this year as usual. The meeting was called by H. G. Hackman, because he is president of the association, and is the only man who represents the business interests in any organized way.

It is especially urged that the citizens of Rushville not lay down on this proposition. They all know what the horse show is. It has been improving every year. With each year's improvement came greater interest and larger crowds. It has served to arouse the pride of the horse owners of Rush county, which has been known for years as the real home of thoroughbreds in all Indiana. Rushville can not afford to let the horse show slip a cog this year, it is declared. If the year passes without a horse show, its doom is sealed, for there will not likely be another for years to come.

The horse show is not restricted to Rush county alone. A few years back the fame of the show spread outside the county and now the State of Indiana does not hold its reputation within its bounds. Horse show officials have already this year received inquiries from outside the State for premium lists and other particulars concerning the fall event.

This morning every business man in Rushville received the following appeal through the mail:

Mr. Business Man:

Everyone knows what a success the horse show was last year. Efforts are now being made by the men who gave the one last year to repeat the latter part of October with one even better. They have not met with the success they should and are about ready to "throw up the sponge."

Merchants and all kinds of business men want another Horse Show, but the matter has never been properly brought before them.

Tonight at 7:30 in the court house assembly room there will be a meeting to get behind this big annual event. You are invited.

PRESTO! NOW HE'S OUT OF RACE

Joe Greenstreet of Henry county Decides Not to Try For Second Bull Moose Nomination.

BOSSES HAVE THE WHIP HAND

They Would Take Pleasure in Flattering Him Out Again if He Bobbed Up.

Joseph A. Greenstreet, the victim of the double cross in the bull moose district machine, operated by E. F. Warfel of Richmond and Rudolph G. Leeds, the district chairman, has retired from the race for renomination as the congressional candidate of his party at the Connersville convention next Monday and has instructed his friends and managers not to place his name before the convention, says the Newcastle Courier. He called up Zell C. Swain of Middletown and instructed him not to carry out the instructions of the moose county committee to prepare a brief, exonerating Greenstreet of the charges made against him in Richmond for presentation to the district convention.

After last Saturday's meeting of the district committee in Connersville, in which Greenstreet was kicked off the ticket, his friends here immediately took steps to have him renominated at the Connersville convention next Monday. Every delegate in Henry county was seen and Mr. Greenstreet was assured of the solid support of his home delegation.

However, after mature deliberation it was deemed best to withdraw the candidacy. It was seen that the Richmond bosses had control of the situation and that they would take great pleasure in again flattening out Mr. Greenstreet by the road roller process of the latest and most improved variety. In Wayne county the moose bosses had their axes out for Mr. Greenstreet from the time he was nominated and they were determined to chop off his political head and keep it severed.

In his letter withdrawing from the congressional race, written to County Chairman W. R. Wilson, Mr. Greenstreet says:

"Newcastle, Ind., Sept. 17, 1912. "Hon. W. R. Wilson, Chairman, "Newcastle, Indiana.

"My Dear Sir:—

"I notice in the public press of this date that I am to come before the proposed district convention at Connersville September 23, for nomination for congress from this district.

"I wish to advise you that this is not the case. Under no circumstances will I consent to the presentation of

WATSON SPEAKS BRIEFLY

Former Congressman is Seized With Sudden Illness Wednesday.

Because of a sudden illness, James E. Watson, who is campaigning in Indiana, spoke only briefly at the Republican meeting in South Bend yesterday. He explained what the Bull Moosers chose to call "stealing" in the Republican national convention. Mr. Watson said Roosevelt spent his time shouting "robber," forgetting entirely it was necessary to prove the claims of the contesting delegates. W. T. Durbin spoke from the same platform yesterday. Mr. Watson was scheduled to speak in Fort Wayne today and Noblesville tomorrow. Saturday he will speak at Columbus, Ohio.

my name before the proposed convention, as I am in no sense a candidate before said convention, nor would I accept the nomination for congress if tendered me.

"Very truly yours, "J. A. GREENSTREET."

The Greenstreet withdrawal and that of William Dudley Foulke of Richmond leaves the moose congressional field open. Tom Bryson of Connersville has stated that he would not accept the nomination. J. L. Watkins of this city is holding back his political ambition and aspiration for mayor's race. Tuesday the name of Lon Hodson, a farmer living south of the city, was mentioned as the probable candidate.

The Richmond bosses, anxious to appease the wrath of Henry county because of the Greenstreet outrage, are willing to nominate a Henry county man.

Since Greenstreet's forced evacuation of the congressional nomination his name has been frequently mentioned as the nominee for representative in the state legislative by the convention to be held here next Tuesday. He is being groomed for the place by Chairman Wilson.

REVIVAL WORKERS IN DISTRESS, TOO

Hundred Volunteer Workers Are Wanted to Finish Tabernacle by Saturday Evening.

MUST HAVE IT DONE BY THEN

Revival workers, too, have thrown out the distress signal. They need more men. If the tabernacle is to be completed by Saturday night, it will be necessary to have a lot more volunteer labor. Those who have donated their services have worked nobly, say the ministers who have been toiling almost daily, but there must be more nails driven tomorrow than there has been any day this week if the building is to be finished. A big sign has been placed on the building and it reads: "Wanted Volunteer Labor."

"We have to get in a lot of good liks tomorrow," said one of the ministers this morning. "Ask the public to send us a hundred men tomorrow and we'll finish it up. Tomorrow is a good day to work. We will have to do the most of it then because Saturday everybody will be busy."

FOUL PLAY STORY IS A GRAPEVINE

Mrs. Clara Piple, Domestic, Dies Near Milroy, But Not Under Mysterious Circumstances.

REPORTED HERE LAST NIGHT

Funeral is Held 24 Hours After Her Death at Parents' Home in Richland.

Rumors of foul play in connection with the death of Mrs. Clara Piple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hood, near Milroy, were all set at naught today when Mrs. Hood said that Mrs. Piple died at her home in the presence of a nurse and other people. There was a story circulated here yesterday evening that a woman had been found dead in a tent at a camp near a stone quarry north of Milroy, but this proved to be false.

The cause of Mrs. Piple's death was not disclosed. She had been ill for a week, Mrs. Hood said. She came to the home of Mrs. Hood to work as a domestic over a week ago. She took sick while there and had to take to her bed. Later a nurse was called to attend her.

Although only twenty-five years old, Mrs. Piple had been married seven or eight years. She and her husband, Frank Piple of Greensburg, are separated. Two children were born to the union, one of whom is dead.

"There is no truth in the story of foul play that was circulated?" was asked Mrs. Hood this afternoon.

"Yes, there might have been foul play all right, but it was done in Greensburg if there was any," replied Mrs. Hood. "Clara died right here in my house in the presence of several people."

Mrs. Piple was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Dement of Richland township. After her death yesterday afternoon the body was removed to her parents' home. The funeral was conducted from the house this afternoon.

CAPT. GOWDY SPEAKS.

Capt. J. K. Gowdy of this city attended the annual reunion of the Fifth Indiana cavalry, in which he was a captain during the Civil war, at the State house in Indianapolis yesterday. A campfire was held in the Statehouse last evening and Capt Gowdy made one of the two chief addresses. Col. Thomas H. Butler of Baltimore was elected president for life at this morning's session.

Muncie Press Gets Next to the Fact That Clifford S. Lee and Bride Arrived.

JUST CAN'T KEEP IT QUIET

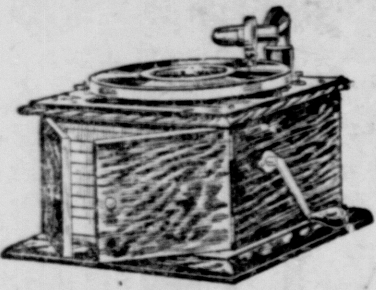

That Clifford S. Lee, field agent and assistant secretary of the Indiana Manufacturers and Shippers association, is as successful in love as he is in his efforts in organizing business men and shippers, was demonstrated Monday evening when he arrived in Muncie, bringing with him a charming bride, who until last Saturday was one of the most popular young society women of Fort Wayne, says the Muncie Press.

Mr. Lee and his bride, who was Miss Bertha Vesta Wilkinson, had planned that their marriage should be kept a secret and so carefully were their plans laid that they thought that the news of their marriage would not leak out for several days. They went to St. Joseph, Mich., and on Saturday afternoon were united in marriage by the Rev. A. H. Stoneman, pastor of the First Congregational church of that city. Immedi-

Obituary.

Aletha Alma Stevens, daughter of Alva and Minnie Stevens, was born February 9, 1891. She was married to Otto Murphy February 17, 1909. To this union was born one child, a daughter, Helen, near two years of age, who sustains an irresponsible loss in the death of a loving devoted mother.

She was from early childhood a member and a faithful attendant of the United Presbyterian church, always taking a delight in the services of the house of God.

After her marriage, she removed to the Gings neighborhood where her winning personality won for her the love and esteem of all with whom she came in contact. After a brief but very severe illness her spirit took its flight into the realms of Eternal Light September 15, 1912, leaving to sorrow, not as those who have no hope, a husband, a baby daughter, a father and mother, a sister, Mrs. Iva McBride, a brother Clyde Stevens and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the home by Dr. Jamieson; burial at East Hill.

Republican National Committee Proposes to Purge Membership of all Unfaithful Ones.

LAST ACT OF CONVENTION Gives Power to Declare Vacant Seat of Any Member Who Will Not Support Ticket.

[Special to the Daily Republican.] New York, September 18.—At the call of Chairman Hilles the Republican National Committee met here today at the Hotel Manhattan for the purpose of purging the committee of members who have not shown a disposition to stand loyally by the action of the national convention in nominating President Taft and Vice-President Sherman, and have failed to give those nominees their hearty support.

"It is alleged that several members of the committee are disloyal to the ticket and the platform," said Chairman Hilles today. "I have called the committee together to take up these charges."

"The sub-committee appointed by the national committee has power to act on these charges, but we have preferred to call together the whole committee in order that the situation may be thoroughly disclosed to every Republican in the United States and the fullest publicity given to our proceedings."

One of the last acts of the Chicago convention was to pass a resolution giving the national committee power to declare vacant the seat of any member of that committee who did not support the ticket and platform of the convention. The national committee also received the power to fill vacancies so created. It is under this resolution that the committee is to act.

Mr. Hilles did not want to be too hasty in invoking that power. He wanted to give every member of the committee a full opportunity to show where he stood in the campaign, for the old Roosevelt followers to change their allegiance, if they so desired. The time has come to act, however, in the opinion of the national chairman, as it is of the greatest importance that the campaign in the various states should be in the hands of those entirely and enthusiastically in sympathy with the nominees and the platform.

It is understood that no formal charges have been prepared, although the chairman has been advised by letter of the attitude taken by various members of the committee, and formal charges can easily be drawn up against half a dozen or so of the members of the committee, probably in each case by prominent members of the organization in the respective states. It is the intention to give the fullest publicity to whatever may be done.

Chairman Hilles did not care to go into details as to the members of the committee against whom charges might be heard. It was learned, however, that they are Borden D. Whiting, of New Jersey; Richmond Pearson, of North Carolina; Walter F. Brown, of Ohio; G. C. Priestly, of Oklahoma, and William S. Edwards, of West Virginia. It is not at all improbable that charges may also be made against Henry G. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, and there may be others.

Mr. Wasson was made a member of the national committee and elected chairman of the Pennsylvania state committee at the instigation of William Flinn, the Roosevelt leader in that state.

After the Chicago convention let it be understood that as an officer of the regular Republican organization he would support the action of that convention. It has become more and more evident, however, that he has placed the interests of Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Flinn before those of President Taft and Vice-President Sherman. Chairman Hilles tried, through Chairman Wasson, to get the electoral situation in Pennsylvania straightened out. Finally Chairman

Hilles took the management of the Congressional campaign in Pennsylvania out of the hands of Chairman Wasson.

Borden D. Whiting has never made any pretence of supporting President Taft.

The New Jersey state committee unanimously passed a resolution asking the national committee to expel Mr. Whiting and name in his place former Governor Franklin Murphy, whom Mr. Whiting succeeded on the committee.

Walter F. Brown resigned his chairmanship of the Ohio state central committee after the state convention, and announced that he would resign from the national committee. He is the active head of the Roosevelt movement in Ohio.

G. C. Priestly, of Oklahoma, is also an active Roosevelt man, and took part in the Roosevelt national convention.

William S. Edwards, of West Virginia, was elected by the delegates to the regular Chicago convention, who were Roosevelt men, and has given no indication that he intends to support the regular ticket.

It is said that in North Carolina Mr. Pearson has done nothing whatever to further the cause of the national ticket, and members of the party in that state have asked Mr. Hilles if he could not have another man substituted for Mr. Pearson.

NOW IT IS STOCK BETTERMENT TRAIN

Pennsylvania Lines Will Carry Special From Purdue University to Mark New Movement.

FOR BETTER LIVE STOCK

[Special to the Daily Republican.] "The first week in October will mark the inauguration of a new movement for better live stock in Indiana," says an announcement sent out by G. I. Christie, superintendent of agricultural department, Purdue University.

"Arrangements have been completed with the Pennsylvania Lines to operate a Live Stock Improvement Special train on the two divisions—Logansport to Richmond, and Richmond to Union City, September 30 to October 5.

"The Pennsylvania Lines have operated special corn and wheat trains in co-operation with the Purdue University Experiment Station. The results from these trains have been very marked, and have meant much to both the railroad and the agricultural people. We hope to disseminate the best information on live stock production. The Animal Husbandry Department of the Purdue Experiment Station has, perhaps, carried on more extensive investigations on beef-cattle feeding than any other department in the country. The results of this work will be presented from the train. Specimen feedings will be carried and exhibited at each stop. With the high price of feeding-cattle and the high price of feed, it is important that every one engaged in this business use the most up-to-date methods in his feeding operations. A full discussion of cattle and hog feeding in all of its phases will be given in the lectures. A short discussion will also be given on the selection of the type of feeders."

"Count Me For Taft."

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Warren E. Andrus, commonly referred to as "the richest man in Congress," is indignant over a rumor that he had dropped from the Republican to the Progressive party. He exhibits a copy of a letter just written to a friend in New York City, which reads:

"Yours of the 9th in regard to the Progressive party received, and will say that what you saw in the newspapers about my joining the Progressive party was entirely new to me. I am still a Republican and shall support the nominees of the Republican party at the polls."

It was said that the report started from the fact that his son-in-law, Frederick M. Davenport, is a candidate for lieutenant governor on the Progressive ticket.

Mr. Andrus has several terms in Congress, but recently he declined to be designated for re-election.

SAY MOOSERS ARE PLAYING POLITICS

Prohibitionists Are Convinced Third Termers Are Not Letting the People Rule.

CAN'T COLLECT THEIR VOTES

[Special to the Daily Republican.] Chicago, Sept. 19.—One of the hardest blows that have been delivered to the Bull Moose party comes direct from the Prohibition camp, where the leaders of that party are preparing to send out pamphlets showing that they would, perhaps, have thrown much of their support toward the Progressives had they not been convinced that the Progressives were "playing politics" and not carrying out their policy of "let the people rule."

Some of the leaders, who declare that as a result of the Progressive "underhand work," Taft will have more votes than ever, say that when they approached prohibition interests regarding the liquor question in the Bull Moose platform such leaders as William Flinn, William Allen White and George Curry promised that such a plank would be included. As those men claim to have stuck out for a liquor plank, Prohibitionists say that the plank was left out of the platform at the suggestion of the great Bull Moose himself, because men like William Allen White who went to the convention determined that the plank should go in the platform, only after hearing from the great Bull Moose, ceased to fight for it.

The attitude of the Bull Moosers was to try to get both the votes of the temperance people and the votes of the liquor people by remaining silent, say the Prohibitionists and they will fail.

Nagel and Wilson To Tour.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel and Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture are winding up affairs in their departments in order to get away for several weeks on a speaking tour. Secretary Nagel will be the first to leave, and Secretary Wilson will be ready to start as soon as he completes the hearing of the pine rust, potato wart and fruit fly nuisance, which he is considered with a view to establishing a wide quarantine.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE CONVENTION

Concord, N. H., Sept. 18.—The state convention of the Republicans opened here today, with the delegates enthusiastic of the Maine election and predicting victory for Taft in November. It is believed that the practical forcing out of the party of Winston Churchill, and a few others with Progressive tendencies, has done much to strengthen the state Republicans. A full state ticket will be named.

SUE TO KICK OUT T. R. MEN.

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 18.—The Republican State Committee today began suit in the Supreme Court to put the Roosevelt electors off the state ticket. They expect today to be granted a writ of mandamus to prevent the secretary of state from certifying the Bull Moose names to the county auditors.

ROOSEVELT ORGANIZER QUILTS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Ralph C. Otis, wealthy lawyer, pioneer of the Bull Moose Party in Chicago, and treasurer and general manager of the Roosevelt Convention in this city, has announced that he was through with the Progressive Party. The radicals and impracticables have taken over the organization, in his opinion, and he wants nothing further to do with it. He asserts that almost all the business men originally in the movement are disgusted and are leaving it.

The officials of a western railway have recently instituted a "get acquainted" tour, in which conferences have been held with the citizens of the towns on the road, with the idea of furthering the interests of both parties.

FIRST YEAR VOTERS

They Should Vote With Republican Party.

It Has Stood for Progressive Policies Within Safe Lines and Has Given the Country Unexampled Prosperity.

Between three and four million young men in the United States will this year cast their first vote. Every one of them should vote for President Taft and the Republican party.

In choosing his political affiliation the first voter should thoroughly study the platforms, principles and records of the great political parties, before allying himself with either. If he goes into the record of facts impartially, he cannot escape the conviction that his choice must be with the Republican party. From Lincoln to Taft, with one single exception, every president of the United States has accepted the inspiring Republican doctrine. The Republican party preserved the Union, abolished slavery, freed Cuba, rescued the Philippines and Porto Rico from three centuries of Spanish tyranny, secured the open door of trade in China and is building the Panama Canal—making the old world dream of centuries come true and readjusting the world's highways of commerce. In addition to all this, its beneficent policies and wise administration have resulted in the progress of the nation, with commercial development and national wealth reaching a point almost beyond imagination.

Democrats Are Destructive.

On the other hand, the first voter will find that the Democratic party has always been an obstructive and destructive party instead of constructive; that when in power it has always brought disaster to the country not only because of its incapacity and incompetency, but also because it has invariably destroyed manufacturing interests by attempting to foist free trade upon the American people.

It has always been on the wrong side of everything, and if it could have had its way would have destroyed the credit of the nation with the free coinage of silver. In the last Democratic administration the national debt increased and distrust and panic paralyzed the great industrial system of the country. The value of farm products decreased $500,000,000, banks closed, business firms failed, factories were silent and three million abled men were begging for work. These things happened during the short administration of the Democratic party, which has done nothing for progress, nothing for the cause of liberty and freedom, and nothing for the glory of our common country, for more than half a century.

Republican Party Will Live.

The first voter will not be received by the attack now made upon the Republican party by men who are smarting under the sting of disappointed ambition. This is not the first year in which the Republican party has been subjected to similar experiences. There was the bolt of the Liberal Republicans to Horace Greeley in 1872, the defections in the early 90's to the Farmers' Alliance, Greenback and Populist parties and the withdrawal of the Silver Republicans in 1896. Republican presidents—Lincoln, Grant and McKinley—have been loaded with the vilest abuse by their contemporaries just as President Taft is assailed today. But the Republican party has survived all these experiences just as it will survive the present attempt to bring about its destruction.

The men who left the Republican party in the past have gone down to political oblivion. Those who have remained with the Republican party have, on the contrary, proudly participated in its great achievements.

The Republican party offers to the first voter the splendid record of its past and the glorious promise of its future.

What Happened.

Ah, if the workmen of this country could only know how they have been fooled about the protective tariff working for their benefit. Why, if the protective tariff was relieved at a great many points, this is what would happen, that American industry would take on a new size and speed.—Prof. Wilson.

Why, certainly that is what would happen—just as it did the last time the protective tariff was "relieved."

Getting Back to Normal.

From the St. Louis Times: The one unmistakable political tendency at present is the country-wide recognition of the rare merits of President Taft. A period of normal reflection has set in. The shout has had its day and the intelligent inquiry, the frank recognition of facts, have arrived.

The Difference.

From the Belvedere (Ill.) Republican: The difference between the Roosevelt and Taft administrations is that Mr. Roosevelt talked loudly against those whom he called "malefactors," and secretly protected some of them from the law, while Mr. Taft has made no threats, but has just enforced the laws.

If you are too young to remember what happened the last time the Democratic party was in power, ask some older man who was in business then. There is no danger that he will have forgotten it.

SOCIALISTS RIOT IN BUDA PEST STREETS

Bloodshed Follows Disturbance in Parliament.

Buda Pest, Sept. 19.—There was serious street rioting following the violent scenes in parliament. Socialists had been summoned by their leaders to make a demonstration in favor of electoral reform and against such parliamentary abuses as the forcible exclusion of members of the opposition. The police forbade processions and meetings and ordered all houses closed. The Right Socialists, however, ignored these orders and gathered in the streets. The police broke up the crowd and prevented any of the leaders from making speeches. The demonstrators became more turbulent and later threw down the gas lamps on Lisabethstrasse, thus leaving the whole neighborhood in darkness.

The police charged with swords and the mob replied with stones and bottles. Several persons used revolvers. The streetcar service was suspended, but the mob captured two or three cars and made bonfires of them. The mounted police then joined in the charging and overturned and trampled on about 200 people, many of whom were severely injured.

The offices of the newspapers were attacked and some were not able to publish today.

Odd Fellows Elect Officers.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 18.—C. A. Kellar of San Antonio, Tex., was chosen grand sire of the sovereign lodge, I. O. O. F., by acclamation. Other officers chosen were: Judge Robert F. Daniel, Georgia, deputy grand sire; John B. Goodwin, Baltimore, re-elected grand secretary, and M. Richard Muckle, Philadelphia, re-elected grand treasurer.

Eleventh District Nomination.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 19.—Dr. J. W. G. Stewart of Wabash was nominated for congress by the Republicans of the Eleventh district in convention here.

A STORING UP OF WRATH TO COME

Mexican Depredations Against Americans Continue.

WITHOUT SIGN OF ABATEMENT

The Cold-Blooded Murder of Two More Americans Has Just Been Reported to Washington, While Reports of Continued Pillage of American Mining and Other Properties in Trouble Zone Show Temper of Rebels.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Reports to the state department tell of the murder of two Americans in Mexico. George Retterman, an American blacksmith who formerly lived at Wichita, is reported to have been murdered at Cusihiuriachic on the night of Sept. 15. No particulars of this murder are yet known. The other murder reported is that of Jacob Mayer, also an American, whose headless body was found by some of his neighbors at San Pedro Maren. The body with the head cut off was found in the house Mayer occupied, and it was evident, the reports state, that he had been dead many days. When the murder was committed, by whom, or under what circumstances is not known, but it is presumed that members of one of the many marauding rebel bands are responsible. The local Mexican authorities in Mexico have promised to make a thorough investigation.

While no official statement has ever been given out regarding the number of Americans killed in Mexico during the present revolution, it is understood that it is considerable.

Rumors of disloyalty to the Madero government existing among officers and men of the federal army of the north continue to reach the state department from all sources. While nothing has yet happened which absolutely confirms the rumors, there is still much reason to believe that there is a good deal of truth in them.

Depredations on the property of Americans continue without any sign of abatement. The Batopilas Mining company has reported that the town of Batopilas has been captured by the rebels, who are demanding $7,500 from the company under threat of looting and destruction to its property.

General Steever reports that he has sent Pascual Orozco, sr., father of the rebel commander, and four officers of Orozco's staff to Marfa, Tex. Mexico has made no request for the extradition of Orozco, sr. and the captive members of Orozco's staff, nor is it expected that such a request will be made. The men will be held indefinitely, however, by United States forces.

FORMER SENATOR DEAD

Money of Mississippi Succumbs to Injuries Due to a Fall.

Gulfport, Miss., Sept. 19.—Former Senator Hernando De Soto Money is dead as a result of a fall from the gallery of his residence at Fair Haven, near here. The fall resulted in a fracture of his hip. The end came after several days of intense suffering. His health had been failing recently, and it was due to bad eyesight that he made his fatal misstep. Senator Money was considered the last of the representatives of the old south in congress.

At the age of twenty, when the civil war broke out, Money enlisted in the Confederate army and after a gallant career, in which he attained the rank of captain, he resigned in 1864 because of injury to his sight which afflicted him through his later life.

BUMPER CROP

Will Require Movement of Money From Government Vaults.

Washington, Sept. 19.—To prevent money stringency during the moving of the bumper crops this fall the officials of the treasury department are considering making deposits of from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 among the banks in the farming region out of the surplus money in the government vaults. The secretary of the treasury has ample authority to use his discretion whenever a stringency is threatened, and it is the opinion of treasury officials that the record-breaking crops this year will require more money to harvest and market than can be provided by the banks in the great agricultural states of the west without forcing oppressively high loaning rates in the commercial centers.

Wilson's "Economics."

The American farmer who would vote the Democratic ticket with the Wilson statement right in front of him would not be merely cutting off his nose to spite his face; he would be proving himself deaf, dumb and blind.

It is hardly necessary to say that Wilson's assertion that "the farmer has never been protected because he does not need protection," is not, as he calls it "an economic fact." This is where the impractical pedagogue,

The place best adapted for holding a meeting such as will begin in Rushville next Sunday evening, September 22, is a building such as the above picture illustrates. The seating capacity is wonderful. The speaker can be heard distinctly in the most remote corner. The floor is noiseless. The ventilation is perfect. The lighting will be so arranged that it will be as light as day. And the location of this "Great Pine Temple" will be right in the very center of the city, easily reached from either Perkins, Main, Second or Third streets.

Sam Sanderson Says:

country at heart. They show that Professor Wilson is a theorist, a person of shifting views without positive convictions, a man not of the people. He can not now honestly assert that he did not mean what he said. What he believed then he believes now.

We extend to Professor Wilson our sincere sympathy in his dilemma. He is having troubles of his own. While he is explaining and shifting uneasily from one foot to the other, President Taft stands firmly upon the splendid record of his administration and of the Republican party and needs neither apology nor defense.

A Striking Contrast.

The Sixty-first Congress, with a Republican majority in each house, under the steady but not spectacular pressure of President Taft, enacted more progressive and sound legislation than has stood to the credit of any Congress in generations. The Sixty-second Congress, having a Democratic majority in the House, closed its second session with a startling record of things left undone. Barely has a Congress exhibited more ineptitude in legislation than this. It well merits the criticism of James R. Mann, Republican leader, who declares that "this Congress has enacted laws fewer in number and of less importance than any session in recent years."

Among the measures enacted by the Sixty-first Congress in the first two years of President Taft's administration are the following: Providing for an excise tax on corporations, a law which is working most satisfactorily and producing a handsome revenue; establishing a postal savings bank system; improving and perfecting the employers' liability act; reorganizing and reforming the consular service; creating a tariff board, which has secured a large amount of valuable data for guidance in tariff legislation; suppressing the white slave traffic, under which law many convictions have been secured and the traffic nearly broken up; providing for the fortification of the Panama Canal; amendments for strengthening the interstate commerce law; improvements in the laws on the subject of safety appliances for railroads; for the suppression of the issuance of fraudulent bills of lading.

Contrast this with the almost blank record of the sixty-second congress. "I said last December," said Mr. Mann the other day, "that this session would last longer and do less than any other regular session of recent years. My forecast proved correct."

Organized labor of Ohio is in hearty accord with the views of President Taft regarding the necessity for the reduction in the high cost of living. A committee was recently appointed to take up the matter with the Republicans and a plan was outlined indorsing the work of President Taft in this direction, and making recommendations that will bring the farmer and consumer into closer relations thereby eliminating the waste and providing ways of defeating middlemen who are not disposed to be satisfied with a reasonable profit. The movement of the Ohio laboring men, whose plan of campaign was submitted through their especially appointed delegate, H. W. Brewer, who was sent to New York for that purpose, was received with favor. Mr. Brewer returned to Ohio after telling National Chairman Hilles that Taft would have a united labor and farmer vote in Ohio.

Unblushing Mendacity.

"We stand for equal rights as a fact of life, instead of a catchword of politics."

This if from a Roosevelt-Johnson card that is being distributed in various cities with the title of "Key-note." Its measure of truth is exemplified in Roosevelt's open rejection of the right of millions of colored Americans to political representation. No harsher blow has been aimed at equal rights since the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the constitution of the United States.

The "Keynote" of the Third Term party evidently seems to be unblushing mendacity.

In the course of his speech-making in Pennsylvania, Woodrow Wilson had his hand gripped so tightly by a blacksmith that he winced with pain and was unable to use the hand for some time. Blacksmith probably wanted to get square with him for saying in his "History" that American workmen are inferior to the Chinese.

"Gabby George," as a newspaper calls Perkins, will have to work those women in his Harvester Trust mills day as well as night if he is to meet the demands of the hungry mob in New York State who are howling for the third term and an appropriation.

The one absolute guarantee for the country against another Roosevelt panic and another four years of Democratic depression and bankruptcy, such as we had in 1894-97, is to remain in the safe harbor of Taft good times by voting for the Republican platform and candidates.

The Sable Lorcha
BY
Horace Hazeltine
(Copyright, 1912, A. C. McClurg & Co.)
We spent the better part of the day golfing over the Apawamis links at Rye, lunching at the club house between rounds, for as a specific for nerves I have ever found that game of rare benefit. In the present instance it more than fulfilled my expectations. Cameron, apparently at least, forgot everything save his desire to out-drive, out-approach, and out-put me. And when it was over, and with sharpened appetites we drove back to Cragholt for dinner, he appeared stimulated by a new-found courage.

The day had passed without untoward event, and I felt sure that my friend was gradually coming around to my way of thinking. Neither of us mentioned the subject, but it must have occurred to him, at intervals, as it did to me. And as the hours went by without a sign, the conviction grew that Murphy, with hands tied, was fretting over the coup he was deterred from compassing.

Mrs. Lancaster, whom I have mentioned merely as Cameron's housekeeper, but who was, in addition, a distant kinswoman and acted as a sort of duenna to Evelyn, dined with us that evening, and our little party seemed to me more than usually merry, owing doubtless to the relaxation of the strain which both Cameron and I had been under for the past week.

It gratified me to see my host so unfeignedly cheerful. I remember how he laughed over Mrs. Lancaster's recital of an incident of the morning. "I had no idea," she said, "that Andrew," referring to the kennel master, "was married. He astonished me when he told me he had a wife and three children. And when I told him he did not look like a married man he seemed rather pleased than otherwise."

"It is odd," Cameron returned, "but it seems always to flatter a husband to tell him he doesn't look it." And then he laughed as though he had no care on earth.

After dinner we had the usual music, and Evelyn sang again that lyric of Baudelaire's, this time in the original French. But the melody brought back to me in vivid vision our chance meeting in the woods and all its train of circumstances.

When I had finished applauding, Cameron turned to me. "Do you like Baudelaire?" "I like his art," I answered, "and his frank artificiality."

"He appeals to me," Cameron confessed, "decadent though he is. I have read everything he ever wrote, I think, prose and verse. Did you ever see my copy of his 'Fleurs du Mal'? The casket is worthy of its contents. It is the most exquisitely bound little volume I ever saw. Come, I'll show it to you."

I excused myself to Mrs. Lancaster, and with pretended formality bent over Evelyn's hand, brushing it with my lips.

"Won't you be back?" she whispered.

"I hope so," was my answer. "But I can't promise."

"Oh, what a trial it is to have a selfish uncle!" she murmured as I went.

Cameron led me through the library, across the hall, and thence into his study, where he dove into a miniature book rack reserved for his favorites. After a moment of fruitless search he said:

"It isn't here. How stupid! I took it upstairs a week ago. I remember."

It is in my dressing room. Do you mind coming up? How glad I was to see him interested! He was more like the old Cameron than he had been at any time in the past seven days. My golf prescription had proved even more efficacious than I had dared hope.

At the risk of being tedious I must describe Cameron's dressing room. It was not large—probably 20 feet square—with three doors; one on each of the three sides. That which admitted from the passageway faced that which opened into the bath room. On the left, the third door connected with Cameron's bedroom. On the right were two windows, giving upon an outside balcony. Between them was a fire-place.

To the left of the bath room door was the entrance to a huge closet, guarded by a heavy curtain of old rose velvet. To the right, was a stationary wash-stand, and above it a rectangular mirror, probably ten inches wide and a foot long, and very curiously framed. Across from this, against the wall which divided the room from the passage, was an enormous chiffonier, or chest of drawers. In the room's center was a round table, on which rested a reading lamp. Between the table and the fire-place was a reclining chair. Other chairs, three or four, were variously placed.

I have given these facts because they are necessary to an intelligent understanding of what I am about to relate. That in furnishing and adornment the room was plainly utilitarian is not so material. But there is one exception to this general declaration which demands to be specified. The mirror above the wash-stand possessed a distinction quite aside from its practical utility. This was by no means the first time I had seen it. Cameron had showed it to me, with a degree of pride, early in our acquaintance, explaining that it was at once a relic and an heirloom. Originally the property of Nell Gwynne, it had descended to him through three or four generations of maternal ancestors.

The glass was framed in colored beadwork, to which were attached wax figures in high relief; at the top, a miniature portrait of Charles II. in his state robes; at the bottom, one of Nell herself, in court dress. The king appeared also on the right, in hunting costume, and on the left was another figure of his favorite in less ornamental garb. According to the legend which accompanied this interesting antique, it was Nell Gwynne's own handiwork.

I possessed for me a certain fascination due more to its history than its beauty, for it was not the most artistic of creations, and as Cameron poked about for his Baudelaire, I stood gazing at the glass and thinking of all I had ever read of the illiterate, but saucy, sprightly actress whose sole claim to fame hung on her winning the favor of that easy-going, royal hypocrite, Charles II.

"Here's the binding!" I heard Cameron say, and turned from the mirror to the table, where he had found his sought-for treasure beneath a pile of heavier, grosser works.

"You know something of book-binding," he went on, with enthusiasm. "Now examine that carefully, and tell me if you ever saw anything more exquisite. I had it done in London, last year. It's a copy of one of Le Gascon's."

At first sight it seemed all glittering gold, but on closer inspection I found that the groundwork was bright red morocco, inlaid with buff, olive, and marble leather, the spaces closely filled with very delicate and beautiful pointillite traceries. It was a veritable gem in its way, and I could not blame Cameron for his raptures.

When I had applauded and he praised to his content, he took the little volume from my hand and opening it, with a sort of slow reverence, observed with something like patronism:

"I'm afraid you don't quite understand Baudelaire."

"Does anybody?" I flung back.

"He is not so obscure as his critics would have us believe," Cameron asserted. "Sit down in that lounging chair a moment, and I'll read you something." And as I obeyed, he drew up a chair for himself, speaking all the while in denunciation of Tolstol and the injustice of his criticism.

One poem after another he read, while I lay back listening. To his credit he read them well, though he paused often in mid-verse to explain what he thought I might regard as an affected or, as Tolstol has put it, "an intentional obscurity."

There was one verse which impressed me particularly as he read it, and remained with me for a long while afterward, for, in view of everything, it seemed to have a special appositeness. The lines to which I refer have been translated in this way:

From Heaven's high balconies
See! in their threadbare robes the dead
years cast their eyes,
And from the depths below regret's wan

Cameron sat with his back to the door leading to the passageway, and facing, diagonally, across the table, the Nell Gwynne mirror. My own gaze was on him as he read.

As he finished the verse, a portion of which I have quoted, he lifted his eyes, I thought to meet mine, but his look rose over my head, and clung, while his lids widened, and into every line of his face there came a rigid, startled expression, half amazement, half horror. And in that instant of tense silence the "Fleurs du Mal" slipped from his nerveless fingers, struck the table edge, and dropped with unseemly echo to the floor.

In a breath I was on my feet and staring where his vision had focused. I hardly know what I expected to see. I am sure nothing would have surprised me. And yet I was scarcely prepared for the inexplicable ruin which my sight encountered. The glass of the Nell Gwynne mirror was in atoms.

Cameron rose, a little unsteadily I thought, and coming around the table, joined me in closer inspection of his wrecked hereditament. I can find no word adequate to the description of what we experienced. Amazement and all its synonyms are far too feeble for the task. We were certainly more than appalled. What we saw suggested to me spontaneous disintegration. If such a thing were possible, which I believe it is not, it might have explained the condition of the mirror. No other ascription seemed admissible; for, though the glass remained in its frame not so much as a splinter having been dropped, it was fractured into a thousand tiny pieces, resembling a crystal mosaic, incapable of any but the most minute reflections. And the change to this condition from a fair, unmarred panel had been wrought without sound and seemingly without human agency.

For just a moment Cameron stared in dumb awe. When he turned to me he appeared suddenly to have aged. His eyes were lustreless, and his cheeks wore a gray pallor.

"My God!" he murmured in a kind of breathless whisper.

I would have given a great deal to have been able to allay that terror of the impalpable which was gripping him. But I was helpless. Shocked and astounded, myself, solace was not at my command. More to escape the piteous appeal of his silent gaze than in hope of making discovery, I turned in haste to one of the long windows which opened on the outer balcony. Drawing back the sashes and flinging them wide, I stepped outside and, listening, over the railing.

But the night was strangely still. There was no sound, even, of stirring leaves. A brooding hush seemed spread over all the outdoor world—that ominous silence which often precedes the breaking of a storm. I looked up to find the heavens wrapped in a pall of inky cloud. And then, with a feeling of having fled from a lesser to a greater evil, I returned to the lighted room, and closed the window to shut out the horror of the night.

Cameron was standing where I had left him. He looked woefully tired and haggard.

"Explain it!" he cried, hoarsely.

"My God, Clyde, explain it!"

"I would to Heaven I could," was my forlorn reply.

CHAPTER VII.

"From Sight of Men Into Torment."

Seldom have I passed a more miserable hour than that which followed upon the seeming phenomenon I have described. Cameron was nervously in tatters and my own poise was something more than threatened. The sight of a usually brave, strong, self-contained person of stolidly phlegmatic temperament transformed into a relaxed, nerveless, apprehensive creature is enough of itself to try one's fortitude, even with the most favorable collateral conditions. And

Mrs. J. N. Hill, Homer, Ga., has used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years, and says she always recommends it to her friends. "It never fails to cure our coughs and colds and prevent croup. the collateral conditions here were quite the reverse. That which had affected Cameron had exerted an influence upon me as well, knowing, as I did, all the circumstances and being interested, as I was, in my friend's problem. And so while his plight tore at my heartstrings, my own inability to grapple with the mystery contributed an added mental distress.

To my dismay I found Cameron quite incapable of anything approaching a calm, common-sense discussion of the matter, and realized to the full the mischief which this last performance, coming as a climax upon a week of more or less disquietude, had effected.

He sat most of the time with head bent forward and knees doubled, his toes touching the floor but his heels raised and in constant vibrating movement, as though stricken with palsy. The fingers of one hand toyed incessantly, too, with the fingers of the other, in a variety of twisting, snakelike involutions. In vain I endeavored to arouse him; to stir in him a spirit of retaliation. Some one was playing tricks upon him, and that some one must be discovered and brought to justice. Common sense told us that, however mysterious these happenings appeared, they could not have occurred without human agency. It was our task to discover the agent and punish him. This was my line of argument; but through it all, Cameron sat unmoved and unresponsive.

And then there came to me again, that unwelcome suspicion that all along he had been hiding something from me; that he divined the cause and the source of the persecution, but for some reason of his own would not divulge them.

I rang for one of the footmen and had some brandy brought, and forced Cameron to swallow a stiff drink of it, in which I joined him. But even this stimulant had small effect upon him. And when, finally, I reluctantly bade him good-night, I was overwhelmed by the pathos of his condition. So wrought and tortured, indeed, was I, by the sad picture of de-throned courage which followed me home, that sleep fled me and left me wide-eyed until the dawn.

The tidings which came to me with my coffee that morning were more than half expected. Cameron was ill, and his physician had been summoned from New York.

When I reached Cragholt the doctor had come and gone, and a trained nurse was in attendance. Evelyn, meeting me in the hall, conveyed this intelligence in a breath, and then, laying hold upon me, a slender hand upon each coat sleeve, her big eyes pleading and anxious, she ran on:

"It is shock, Dr. Massey says. Deferred shock, he called it. He says Uncle Robert has suffered from some sudden grief, fright, or other dreadful mental impression. His temperature is way below normal and his pulse is a sort of rapid feeble flutter. Oh, do tell me what you know about it. What shock has he had? You were with him last evening. He was gay enough when you and he went from the music room. What happened afterward?"

Carelessly I rested my palms upon her shoulders.

"My dear little girl," I said, soothingly. "I am sorry I can't satisfy your very natural curiosity."

"But it isn't curiosity," she corrected, promptly. "It's interest."

"Well, interest then. I'm sorry, I say. Something did happen; but to tell you just what it was, and why it was a shock to him, I am not able. Not now, at least. Maybe, some day, you'll know all about it."

There never was a more reasonable young person than Evelyn Grayson. Most girls, I fancy, would have teased and grown peevish at being denied. But she seemed to understand.

"Do you want to see uncle?" she asked me.

"I don't believe it would be wise," I answered. "Probably I, being a reminder, might do him harm. Tell me how he seems? He isn't unconscious?"

To be continued.

MEMBERS GIVEN NOTICE TO QUIT

Accused of Disloyalty to the President.

OTHERS ALLOWED TO RESIGN

Republican National Committee Takes Important Action in Purging Roll of Its Membership in Those States Where There Remained Certain Republican Committeemen Whose Preference Was For Roosevelt.

New York, Sept. 19.—At its meeting here the Republican national committee expelled four members of the committee who favor Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for president. Three others who are for Roosevelt were allowed to resign. In each case the accusation was disloyalty to the party and President Taft.

The four peremptorily ousted are: California, Russ Avery of Los Angeles, succeeded by a man selected by committee; New Jersey, Borden D. Whiting of Newark, succeeded by ex-Governor Franklin D. Murphy; North Carolina, Richard Pearson of Asheville, to be succeeded by ex-State Committeeman E. C. Duncan; West Virginia, W. S. Edwards of Wheeling, successor to be indicated by state committee. The committee selected Charles A. Spiess as successor to Solomon Luna of New Mexico, who is dead.

The three whose resignations were accepted are: Oklahoma, G. D. Priestly of Pottsville, succeeded by J. A. Harris; Ohio, Walter F. Brown, succeeded by Sherman A. Granger; Minnesota, J. A. Carswell of St. Paul, successor to be indicated by state committee.

The Californian, Russ Avery, sent a telegram of resignation in which he told Mr. Hilles that "there is no more Republican party in California." Instead of letting him resign the national committee fired him.

All this decapitation was done by unanimous vote of the committeemen and proxies representing all except thirteen states. It was cheerfully stated that the committee has got rid of all of its "bad blood" and can now go ahead in solid formation to elect President Taft. The cases were presented one at a time. None of the offending members were present and no protests were received. It was believed that all of the ousted men would acquiesce in the decision.

Aside from this little job of housecleaning, the national committee busied itself most with two important programs vexing it. The problems have to do with Kansas and Nebraska, where electors chosen on a Taft ticket are determined to vote for Colonel Roosevelt, and with California, where the Republican party is temporarily shot to pieces, the result of the primary, which gave the Progressives possession of the old party name emblem.

The committee met the Kansas-Nebraska predicament by passing a resolution asking the pro-Roosevelt electors, six in each state, to kindly get off the ticket. It was decided in the case of California to rehabilitate the Republican party right away. This task will be intrusted to a special committee to be named by Chairman Hilles. The special committee will go to California, select a name to replace the party designation which the Roosevelt people have appropriated, and push the Taft campaign hard.

Mr. Hilles, in an opening speech evidencing the whole field, told his comrades that the situation may have looked bad at the start of the campaign because 100 electors selected for Taft had declared they would cast their ballots for the colonel. But he added that the Taft strategists in one way and another had reduced this number to Nebraska's six and Kansas's six and that the only bothersome state remaining was California, which he hoped to straighten out soon.

Martial Law Extended.
Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 19.—Fifteen armed mine guards were arrested by soldiers when martial law in the Kanawha coal strike district was extended to include Kingston and Keokerton, mining towns in Fayette county. The guards were charged with carrying firearms and doing police duty in violation of the state law. They will be tried before the military commission.

A Bloody Battle.
Rome, Sept. 19.—The most sanguinary engagement of the war in Tripoli has just been fought near Derne. The Italians lost sixty-one men and 113 wounded. The Turks and Arabs left more than 800 dead on the field. Forty-one prisoners, including an Arab chief, fell into the hands of the Italians.

Promises Justice to Indians.
Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 19.—Colonel Roosevelt, traversing New Mexico, told the Indians that he would do justice to them if elected, as he had done justice to them when he was president.

Didn't Tarry Long in Chicago.
Chicago, Sept. 19.—Governor Wilson arrived here from St. Paul this morning at 9 o'clock, and after holding a reception at Democratic headquarters, left for Detroit at 10:30.

W. H. K. REDMOND
Irish Leader's Brother
Is Coming to America.

New York, Sept. 19.—William H. K. Redmond, member of parliament and a brother of the Irish leader, John E. Redmond, is coming to the United States to make a tour of the principal cities and give his interpretation of the home rule bill now before the house of commons. He is on the White Star liner Baltic, due tomorrow.

RELATIONS REMAIN SAME AS FORMERLY

No Evidence of Change in Big Oil Companies.

New York, Sept. 19.—At the hearing in the suit of the Standard Oil Company against the Waters-Pierce Company, officers of several companies which were formerly Standard Oil subsidiaries were examined by counsel for the Waters-Pierce interests. The examination was meant to show that the relations between these companies and the Standard are the same today as they were before the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Samuel A. Drew was asked if he knew of John D. Rockefeller's having transferred any of his stock since the dissolution, and he said he did not.

SOME SEA SERPENT

California Reports Rare Creature of Mixed Characteristics.

Venice, Cal., Sept. 19.—W. H. Gilman, a fisherman, has brought in what experts say is a genuine sea serpent of the rarest variety. While casting off the burned pier at Ocean Park, Gilman hauled the creature in. It was about five feet long, black and green mottled, with a tail not unlike that of a shark. It had a dorsal fin and four feet shaped like those of a parrot. Its mouth resembled that of an Arizona Gila monster, while its head was a reproduction of a California horned toad.

How to Get Rid of Gypsies.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—Aroused by reports from various parts of the state that bands of gypsies are attacking children and attempting to extort money from citizens, state officials are discussing the need of a statute regulating the conduct of gypsies. Dan M. Link, a member of the state board of tax commissioners, says that a license fee tax is levied on gypsies in Virginia. He says the law keeps them out of the state.

TAFT AT ROCHESTER.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Republican state leaders in this section of the State today wired enthusiastic reports to the eastern and western headquarters of the National Republican Committee as a result of the visit of President Taft at the celebration of the centennial of Rochester. The farmers, particularly, many of whom visited Syracuse last week to hear Governor Wilson declare that the Democratic and Progressive platforms are "all in" after the attack made on them by President Taft.

Notice of Election.

The members of the Rush County Farmers Insurance Association are hereby notified to meet at the assembly room in the court house in Rushville, Indiana, on Saturday, October 12, 1912, at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may come before said meeting.

MOVEMENT FOR BETTER HEALTH

Chief Topic for National Conservation Congress.

INDIANA TAKING THE LEAD

Thomas R. Shipp, Executive Secretary of the Congress, Who Has Been in Conservation Movement Since Its Inception, Points Out Peculiar Fitness of This Great Topic For Discussion in Meeting at Hoosier Capital.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—Out of the meeting of the National Conservation congress in this city next month, is expected to develop a national sentiment in favor of national and state laws for the conservation of life and health and a more general observance by the people of methods of safeguarding human life. This assertion is made by Thomas R. Shipp, executive secretary of the congress, who addressed the ways and means committee of the Commercial club. Mr. Shipp, who has been in the conservation movement since its inception, described its growth in detail. For years, said Mr. Shipp, advocates of better health conditions have been demanding that congress take up the conservation of the greatest resource of all—human life, which will be the general topic at the Indianapolis convention.

"Each section of the country where the conservation congress has met heretofore has had one great conservation issue," said Mr. Shipp. "Indiana has no great forests left, no large waterways, no public lands, but the state is intensely interested in the greatest conservation question of all—the health and lives of the people of the country."

"Indiana is interested especially and vitally in preventing the pollution of her streams; in a purer domestic water supply; in the proper disposition of accidents in her factories, on her railroads and in her mines, and, in general, in better conditions of life and health. Therefore, the national conservation congress comes here, to the center of population and the heart of trade, to discuss these questions. We shall bring to this forum some of the leading authorities of the nation, representatives of some of the greatest national associations, which are affiliated with us, and it may be, some of the most noted health men of Europe, at least one of the three presidential candidates and leaders in thought and achievement throughout the United States."

"Out of the Indianapolis congress we expect a national sentiment to arise that will result in state and federal laws for the conservation of life and health and a more general observance by the people themselves of better methods, of conserving human life."

YOUNG GIRL KILLED

Automobile Turned Over and Crushed Out Her Life.

Stilesville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Miss Ruth Mahaney, aged sixteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mahaney of Terre Haute, was killed and her mother was perhaps fatally injured in an automobile accident near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahaney were taking their daughter to Notre Dame to enter her at St. Mary's college. The automobile skidded and Mahaney lost control of it. The machine overturned and the occupants were pinned under it. One wheel rested on the girl's throat and Mahaney did not have enough strength to remove it. The girl was strangled before the machine could be moved by farmers.

Mrs. Mahaney suffered many bruises and Mr. Mahaney escaped with slight injuries. Mahaney is known at Terre Haute as Patsy Crackerjack, the popcorn king.

Rough-and-Tumble Fight.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 19.—The fight between Chief of Police Haley and Attorney J. B. Gamble is being investigated by the grand jury, according to reports at the courthouse. Haley was testifying in a case and was being cross-examined by Gamble. The chief lost his temper, jumped from his seat and knocked the attorney down. The men were engaged in a rough-and-tumble fight when they were separated by Mayor Davidson and Prosecutor Trapet. An old grudge is said to be back of the fight.

Trying to Get Together.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—Negotiations for unifying the systems of the Indianapolis and Central Union telephone companies have been renewed in an informal manner by the two companies with the board of public works. The board believes the companies would be willing to unify under the franchise of the Indianapolis Telephone company.

Soldiers Held Reunion.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 19.—About 1,200 soldiers and their wives attended the annual picnic and reunion of Indiana civil war veterans held on the grounds of the State Soldiers' home. Officers of the institution with the board of trustees and the officers of the State Soldiers' association welcomed the veterans.

NO IMMUNITY BATH IN HARVESTER CASE

"Higher Ups" Will Escape Call to Witness Stand.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Officials of the department of justice admit that, to avoid an "immunity bath" fiasco similar to that in the beef trust prosecution, the "higher ups" of the harvester trust will probably not be called as witnesses in the trial now being held at Chicago.

George W. Perkins, Cyrus M. McCormick and Charles Deering are among those who it is officially announced will escape witness stand orders in the Chicago case now on trial. Others who may not be called unless the government deems it absolutely necessary to secure a verdict of dissolution against the harvester trust, are E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation, and Harold McCormick.

BIG VIADUCT

Will Shorten New England's Trade Route to the West.

New York, Sept. 19.—With the letting of a $2,000,000 contract for the building of foundations and masonry for the long Hell Gate viaduct of the New York Connecting railroad, a road to connect by rail the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Pennsylvania railroads, most of the work has been contracted for and construction will proceed rapidly. It is hoped that the road will be completed in two years at a cost estimated at $20,000,000. The road will be about nine miles long and is built with a view to facilitating the handling of traffic between New England and the west.

to agree to refrain from smoking on the school grounds. The superintendent hopes in time to be able to break up the habit altogether.

The fact that Edinburg and Rushville school officials are having trouble with the cigarette smokers led to an investigation here. Superintendent T. F. Fitzgibbon of the local schools, said in reply to a question that he thought the less publicity the cigarette habit had the better, but he says that high school boys do smoke at times and they not only smoke cigarettes but pipes as well.

For several years here the noses of the superintendent and of the principal, Samuel Wertz, have been trained to smell tobacco smoke. Neither smokes but he recognizes the odor in a second. When the principal smells tobacco smoke on a boy's clothes he has a talk with that boy and tells the boy that he must not bring pipe, tobacco or cigarettes to school. If the boy acts right about it the matter drops there. If the boy does not make the proper explanation or promise the principal "goes through him" and confiscates pipe, cigarette or "makin's." The confiscated tobacco and smoking implements go into the furnace. Pipe after pipe and cigarette after cigarette have found their way into the furnace of the school building here.

Teachers of the high school are instructed to notify the proper authorities if they catch a high school boy smoking. The boy is sure to get an invitation to talk over the situation after that and if he quits, well and good. If he does not quit smoking he is very likely to quit school. About a half dozen boys were suspended here last year because they loved smoking better than they loved school.

The local school authorities do not think a whole lot of the proposition of having boys sign a pledge to stop smoking. They simply tell the boys that smoking is against the school law and violators of the law will be punished. The same thing is true of the fraternities and sororities here. The boys and girls were told that the Indiana State law prohibited these organizations. They were not begged to quit or asked to sign a pledge. They were told the law and informed that the law would be obeyed. In some schools the officials are still trying to argue with the pupils about the frats and sororities, but here the Greek letter epidemic is something of the past and no more trouble is anticipated from that source.

Many Columbus high school boys smoke and many of them will continue to smoke but they will have to be very careful about it because if the school authorities catch them at it a most unpleasant time will be in prospect.

ately after the ceremony they left on a lake trip, thinking that they had successfully evaded their friends.

Now Mr. Lee before entering upon his present work was one of the best newspaper men in Indiana, having been connected for several years with newspapers in Indianapolis and other cities of the State, and he should have known that good news can not be kept and in this instance this was the case. The Fort Wayne newspapers found out the particulars of the wedding almost as soon as it happened and on Saturday evening the announcement of the ceremony was published in the Fort Wayne papers.

Mr. Lee is one of the best known young men in Indiana and has a host of friends in all parts of the State. His bride is the daughter of Thomas A. Wilkinson, one of the best known of Fort Wayne's business men who served for two terms as sheriff of Allen county. She is a beautiful and talented young woman and one of the most popular young women of Fort Wayne. For several weeks Mr. and Mrs. Lee will be located in Muncie, where Mr. Lee's business will keep him for some time.

FLAG RAISING TO BE FEATURE

Trophy of State League Will be Unfurled Sunday at Maxwell Ball Park

Rushville Has High Hopes of Taking Newcastle Into Camp in Second Game of Series.

The crowd that will accompany the Rushville team to Newcastle Sunday for the second game of the series with the Maxwell team will be as large, if not larger than the one that journeyed to the Rose City Sunday before last when the locals dropped a ten inning game to the champions of the Indiana State League. The fans here, because of the disappointment received last Sunday when rain interfered with the game, lost interest in the coming contest, but now the interest has been revived and a large crowd is assured.

The game will be the feature attraction of the season at the Maxwell park. All Newcastle promises to turn out for the pennant raising program. The Arlington band will accompany the local team and pull for a victory over the champions of the State league. The game should be a battle as both teams are evenly matched.

A victory for Rushville means much since Newcastle won the first game of the series. Manager Maibaugh believes his team can turn the trick and will go there confident of bringing home the bacon. The local team is assured of a square deal in the way of an umpire as Harry Geisel, the Central League umpire will officiate. Geisel was to have umpired here last Sunday. The present arrangements call for the special train to leave here at 12:30 o'clock and returning leave Newcastle at 6 o'clock.

Commenting on the coming game the Newcastle Courier says:

The real big base ball day in Newcastle will occur next Sunday, when not only the second game in the Rushville series will be played, but the pennant, the trophy of victory in the Indiana State league, will be raised and flung to the breezes from the big flagstaff in center field. A band concert previous to the pennant raising will also be included in the program.

Manager Williams received the pennant Tuesday from Indianapolis. It is a gray and red affair, appropriately lettered, and is a trophy to be proud of. The officials of the Indiana State league, including the managers of the various clubs, will be invited to participate in the ceremony.

BUNKO GAME IS BROUGHT TO END

Arrest of Roy Murphy Brings to Light Clever Scheme to De-Fraud People.

GETS $360 FROM THE COUNTY

Sells Gasoline for 11½ Cents per Gallon and Collects Money in Advance.

With the arrest here today of Roy Murphy, whose place of residence is unknown, a clever bunko game was brought to an end and no doubt many farmers were saved from a swindle. Murphy was arrested on an affidavit filed by W. A. Alexander, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. He admitted his guilt when arraigned before Squire Kratzer and was bound over to the circuit court under $1000 bond, which he was unable to secure.

Murphy's game was about the boldest and most daring ever pulled off on the people here. He posed as a representative of the Consumers Anti-Trust Oil Company, which company, as far as can be learned, was confined strictly to the accused man. His graft was selling gasoline and oil in barrel quantities to automobile owners.

His prices were so alluring that he secured $363.10 in Rush county money before he was caught. The gasoline Murphy sold was for cash and delivery to be made in the future. His price for 68 to 72 test gasoline was eleven and one-half cents per gallon. When it is taken into consideration that this grade of gasoline wholesales for 18 cents a gallon, it is no wonder Murphy did a big business. He sold fifty and one hundred gallon quantities right and left and with each order collected in advance.

W. A. Alexander gave his $17.25 for 150 gallons. The transaction occurred some time ago and when pushed for the delivery Murphy kept putting Mr. Alexander off. He promised to have the gasoline here last Saturday and when it failed to come Mr. Alexander became suspicious. It developed that Murphy intended to supply his orders through the Tiona Refining Company of Indianapolis and communication with this firm revealed the fact that Murphy was not their representative but had ordered one barrel of gasoline from them.

Murphy continued operations and this morning Mr. Alexander determined to make him show his hand. A representative of the Tiona people was sent here from Connersville and Murphy was arrested. The representative of the oil company stated Murphy was in no way connected with his firm and at the price he sold the gasoline they could not supply the orders even if purchased in train lots.

When arrested Murphy had a check from W. A. Mull for $46, which he secured this morning in payment for 400 gallons of gasoline. Murphy has been in this city since the first of the month and had made many friends. When seen at the jail this afternoon Murphy explained his plan of operation to Mr. Alexander. He stated that a few months ago he operated in Decatur, Ill., and purchased gasoline for 9½ cents a gallon, selling it for 11½, thus giving him a margin of two cents.

Murphy said he intended to contract with the Tiona company for the oil but had neglected to do so. For some unknown reason he had neglected to take into consideration the advance in price of gasoline and even if he intended to deliver it, could not have bought it any place for the sum he was selling it for here. Besides dealing in gasoline Murphy took several orders for kerosene, selling 100 gallons for $4, the money always in advance. Murphy carried an order book and the proposition to all outward appearances seemed to be on the square.

JOKE ON CROWD OF JOKESTERS WORKS

Milroy Young People Who go Out on Serenading Escapade Have to Walk Home.

HAY WAGON HIDDEN IN FIELD

The crowd of jokers from Milroy was responsible for a number of Milroy people walking all the way from the home of Hubert Innis, a distance of three miles to Milroy last night with the temperature hovering around forty degrees. Mr. and Mrs. Innis surprised their friends around here by pulling off a wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Parrish, northeast of here, Tuesday evening, September third. Not to be outdone, a crowd of Milroy young people romped down to Hubert Innis' house in automobiles and on a hay wagon last night for a little serenade party.

A gang of roisters heard of the escapade and decided to play a joke on the jokesters. They hustled down to Innis', hid the hay wagon in a nearby field and disabled one of the automobiles. The hay wagon was not found until the morning, and most of the party had to walk home in the cold, cold night. A few stayed all night at Innis'. The switch key was stolen from the automobile, but the owner made an improvised one out of wire, and was able to run it back to town.

WHO'S TO HELP SHOW IN PERIL?

Will Rushville Come Forward and Answer Distress Signal Sent by Directors of Event?

TONIGHT IS TIME TO DO IT

Doom of Annual Fall Show Will be Sealed if Somebody Doesn't Rescue It.

Last night announcement was made of the S. O. S. signal sent out by the horse show directors. Today the white flag of distress is unfurled and is being waved madly.

It is imperative that every Rushville business man, and any others who are interested in the city's welfare turn out tonight for the special meeting called to consider the proposition as presented yesterday by the directors of the fall event.

The horse show is in the balance. More than fifteen hundred dollars is needed to run the event. That is the least amount possible to make the horse show as good as it was last year. And it would not be good ethics to have one of us good. For the 1911 event the merchants and other interested citizens subscribed $1556. This year, after straining themselves considerably, representatives of the show were able to get promises for the meagre sum of $726.

The meeting is not called tonight for the members of the Retail Merchants Association alone. It is for every man, woman and child in Rushville who wants to see the horse show go off this year as usual. The meeting was called by H. G. Hackman, because he is president of the association, and is the only man who represents the business interests in any organized way.

It is especially urged that the citizens of Rushville not lay down on this proposition. They all know what the horse show is. It has been improving every year. With each year's improvement came greater interest and larger crowds. It has served to arouse the pride of the horse owners of Rush county, which has been known for years as the real home of thoroughbreds in all Indiana. Rushville can not afford to let the horse show slip a cog this year, it is declared. If the year passes without a horse show, its doom is sealed, for there will not likely be another for years to come.

The horse show is not restricted to Rush county alone. A few years back the fame of the show spread outside the county and now the State of Indiana does not hold its reputation within its bounds. Horse show officials have already this year received inquiries from outside the State for premium lists and other particulars concerning the fall event.

This morning every business man in Rushville received the following appeal through the mail:

Mr. Business Man:

Everyone knows what a success the horse show was last year. Efforts are now being made by the men who gave the one last year to repeat the latter part of October with one even better. They have not met with the success they should and are about ready to "throw up the sponge."

Merchants and all kinds of business men want another Horse Show, but the matter has never been properly brought before them.

Tonight at 7:30 in the court house assembly room there will be a meeting to get behind this big annual event. You are invited.

Mrs. Paul Harris has returned from a few days' visit with her parents in Connersville.

PRESTO! NOW HE'S OUT OF RACE

Joe Greenstreet of Henry county Decides Not to Try For Second Bull Moose Nomination.

BOSSSES HAVE THE WHIP HAND

They Would Take Pleasure in Flattering Him Out Again if He Bobbed Up.

Joseph A. Greenstreet, the victim of the double cross in the bull moose district machine, operated by E. F. Warfel of Richmond and Rudolph G. Leeds, the district chairman, has retired from the race for renomination as the congressional candidate of his party at the Connersville convention next Monday and has instructed his friends and managers not to place his name before the convention, says the Newcastle Courier. He called up Zell C. Swain of Middletown and instructed him not to carry out the instructions of the moose county committee to prepare a brief, exonerating Greenstreet of the charges made against him in Richmond for presentation to the district convention.

After last Saturday's meeting of the district committee in Connersville, in which Greenstreet was kicked off the ticket, his friends here immediately took steps to have him renominated at the Connersville convention next Monday. Every delegate in Henry county was seen and Mr. Greenstreet was assured of the solid support of his home delegation.

However, after mature deliberation it was deemed best to withdraw the candidacy. It was seen that the Richmond bosses had control of the situation and that they would take great pleasure in again flattening out Mr. Greenstreet by the road roller process of the latest and most improved variety. In Wayne county the moose bosses had their axes out for Mr. Greenstreet from the time he was nominated and they were determined to chop off his political head and keep it severed.

In his letter withdrawing from the congressional race, written to County Chairman W. R. Wilson, Mr. Greenstreet says:

"Newcastle, Ind., Sept. 17, 1912.
Hon. W. R. Wilson, Chairman,
Newcastle, Indiana.

"My Dear Sir:

"I notice in the public press of this date that I am to come before the proposed district convention at Connersville September 23, for nomination for congress from this district.

"I wish to advise you that this is not the case. Under no circumstances will I consent to the presentation of

WATSON SPEAKS BRIEFLY

Former Congressman is Seized With Sudden Illness Wednesday.

Because of a sudden illness, James E. Watson, who is campaigning in Indiana, spoke only briefly at the Republican meeting in South Bend yesterday. He explained what the Bull Moosers chose to call "stealing" in the Republican national convention. Mr. Watson said Roosevelt spent his time shouting "robber," forgetting entirely it was necessary to prove the claims of the contesting delegates. W. T. Durbin spoke from the same platform yesterday. Mr. Watson was scheduled to speak in Fort Wayne today and Noblesville tomorrow. Saturday he will speak at Columbus, Ohio.

my name before the proposed convention, as I am in no sense a candidate before said convention, nor would I accept the nomination for congress if tendered me.

"Very truly yours,
"J. A. GREENSTREET."

The Greenstreet withdrawal and that of William Dudley Foulke of Richmond leaves the moose congressional field open. Tom Bryson of Connersville has stated that he would not accept the nomination. J. L. Watkins of this city is holding back his political ambition and aspiration for mayor's race. Tuesday the name of Lon Hodson, a farmer living south of the city, was mentioned as the probable candidate.

The Richmond bosses, anxious to appease the wrath of Henry county because of the Greenstreet outrage, are willing to nominate a Henry county man.

Since Greenstreet's forced evacuation of the congressional nomination his name has been frequently mentioned as the nominee for representative in the state legislature by the convention to be held here next Tuesday. He is being groomed for the place by Chairman Wilson.

REVIVAL WORKERS IN DISTRESS, TOO

Hundred Volunteer Workers Are Wanted to Finish Tabernacle by Saturday Evening.

MUST HAVE IT DONE BY THEN

Revival workers, too, have thrown out the distress signal. They need more men. If the tabernacle is to be completed by Saturday night, it will be necessary to have a lot more volunteer labor. Those who have donated their services have worked nobly, say the ministers who have been toiling almost daily, but there must be more nails driven tomorrow than there has been any day this week if the building is to be finished. A big sign has been placed on the building and it reads: "Wanted Volunteer Labor."

"We have to get in a lot of good liks tomorrow," said one of the ministers this morning. "Ask the public to send us a hundred men tomorrow and we'll finish it up. Tomorrow is a good day to work. We will have to do the most of it then because Saturday everybody will be busy."

Columbus Authorities Search High School Boys For "Makin's" and Throw 'em in Furnace.

MEANING OF COURSE "MAKIN'S"

The superintendents of the schools at Edinburg and Rushville have recently awakened to the fact that the cigarette habit is not supposed to be conducive to good work in the high school and they are taking steps to eradicate the smoke, says the Columbus Republican. The superintendent

FOUL PLAY STORY IS A GRAPEVINE

Mrs. Clara Piple, Domestic, Dies Near Milroy, But Not Under Mysterious Circumstances.

REPORTED HERE LAST NIGHT

Funeral is Held 24 Hours After Her Death at Parents' Home in Richland.

Rumors of foul play in connection with the death of Mrs. Clara Piple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hood, near Milroy, were all set at naught today when Mrs. Hood said that Mrs. Piple died at her home in the presence of a nurse and other people. There was a story circulated here yesterday evening that a woman had been found dead in a tent at a camp near a stone quarry north of Milroy, but this proved to be false.

The cause of Mrs. Piple's death was not disclosed. She had been ill for a week, Mrs. Hood said. She came to the home of Mrs. Hood to work as a domestic over a week ago. She took sick while there and had to take to her bed. Later a nurse was called to attend her.

Although only twenty-five years old, Mrs. Piple had been married seven or eight years. She and her husband, Frank Piple of Greensburg, are separated. Two children were born to the union, one of whom is dead.

"There is no truth in the story of foul play that was circulated?" was asked Mrs. Hood this afternoon.

"Yes, there might have been foul play all right, but it was done in Greensburg if there was any," replied Mrs. Hood. "Clara died right here in my house in the presence of several people."

Mrs. Piple was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Dement of Richland township. After her death yesterday afternoon the body was removed to her parents' home. The funeral was conducted from the house this afternoon.

CAPT. GOWDY SPEAKS.

Capt. J. K. Gowdy of this city attended the annual reunion of the Fifth Indiana cavalry, in which he was a captain during the Civil war, at the State house in Indianapolis yesterday. A campfire was held in the Statehouse last evening and Capt. Gowdy made one of the two chief addresses. Col. Thomas H. Butler of Baltimore was elected president for life at this morning's session.

Muncie Press Gets Next to the Fact That Clifford S. Lee and Bride Arrived.

JUST CAN'T KEEP IT QUIET

That Clifford S. Lee, field agent and assistant secretary of the Indiana Manufacturers and Shippers association, is as successful in love as he is in his efforts in organizing business men and shippers, was demonstrated Monday evening when he arrived in Muncie, bringing with him a charming bride, who until last Saturday was one of the most popular young society women of Fort Wayne, says the Muncie Press.

Mr. Lee and his bride, who was Miss Bertha Vesta Wilkinson, had planned that their marriage should be kept a secret and so carefully were their plans laid that they thought that the news of their marriage would not leak out for several days. They went to St. Joseph, Mich., and on Saturday afternoon were united in marriage by the Rev. A. H. Stoneman, pastor of the First Congregational church of that city. Immediately of the Edinburg schools has appealed to Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State board of health for help, while the superintendent of the Rushville schools is having the boys sign the pledge.

According to a Rushville newspaper the superintendent there had all the high school boys remain after school, when he talked to them on the evils of cigarette smoking and then asked all who were willing to stop to hold up their hands. Many did so, but it appears that a few devotees of the weed were not inclined to swear off just then and they were persuaded

Obituary.

Aletha Alma Stevens, daughter of Alva and Minnie Stevens, was born
February 9, 1891. She was married to Otto Murphy February 17, 1909.
To this union was born one child, a daughter, Helen, near two years of age, who sustains an irresponsible loss in the death of a loving devoted mother.

She was from early childhood a member and a faithful attendant of the United Presbyterian church, always taking a delight in the services of the house of God.

After her marriage, she removed to the Gings neighborhood where her winning personality won for her the love and esteem of all with whom she came in contact. After a brief but very severe illness her spirit took its flight into the realms of Eternal Light September 15, 1912, leaving to sorrow, not as those who have no

WILL OUST ALL DISLOYAL ONES

Republican National Committee Proposes to Purge Membership of all Unfaithful Ones.

LAST ACT OF CONVENTION Gives Power to Declare Vacant Seat of Any Member Who Will Not Support Ticket.

[Special to the Daily Republican.] New York, September 18.—At the call of Chairman Hilles the Republican National Committee met here today at the Hotel Manhattan for the purpose of purging the committee of members who have not shown a disposition to stand loyally by the action of the national convention in nominating President Taft and Vice-President Sherman, and have failed to give those nominees their hearty support.

"It is alleged that several members of the committee are disloyal to the ticket and the platform," said Chairman Hilles today. "I have called the committee together to take up these charges."

"The sub-committee appointed by the national committee has power to act on these charges, but we have preferred to call together the whole committee in order that the situation may be thoroughly disclosed to every Republican in the United States and the fullest publicity given to our proceedings."

One of the last acts of the Chicago convention was to pass a resolution giving the national committee power to declare vacant the seat of any member of that committee who did not support the ticket and platform of the convention. The national committee also received the power to fill vacancies so created. It is under this resolution that the committee is to act.

Mr. Hilles did not want to be too hasty in invoking that power. He wanted to give every member of the committee a full opportunity to show where he stood in the campaign, for the old Roosevelt followers to change their allegiance, if they so desired. The time has come to act, however, in the opinion of the national chairman, as it is of the greatest importance that the campaign in the various states should be in the hands of those entirely and enthusiastically in sympathy with the nominees and the platform.

It is understood that no formal charges have been prepared, although the chairman has been advised by letter of the attitude taken by various members of the committee, and formal charges can easily be drawn up against half a dozen or so of the members of the committee, probably in each case by prominent members of the organization in the respective states. It is the intention to give the fullest publicity to whatever may be done.

Chairman Hilles did not care to go into details as to the members of the committee against whom charges might be heard. It was learned, however, that they are Borden D. Whiting, of New Jersey; Richmond Pearson, of North Carolina; Walter F. Brown, of Ohio; G. C. Priestly, of Oklahoma; and William S. Edwards, of West Virginia. It is not at all improbable that charges may also be made against Henry G. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, and there may be others.

Mr. Wasson was made a member of the national committee and elected chairman of the Pennsylvania state committee at the instigation of William Flinn, the Roosevelt leader in that state.

After the Chicago convention let it be understood that as an officer of the regular Republican organization he would support the action of that convention. It has become more and more evident, however, that he has placed the interests of Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Flinn before those of President Taft and Vice-President Sherman. Chairman Hilles tried, through Chairman Wasson, to get the electoral situation in Pennsylvania straightened out. Finally Chairman

Hilles took the management of the Congressional campaign in Pennsylvania out of the hands of Chairman Wasson.

Borden D. Whiting has never made any pretence of supporting President Taft.

The New Jersey state committee unanimously passed a resolution asking the national committee to expel Mr. Whiting and name in his place former Governor Franklin Murphy, whom Mr. Whiting succeeded on the committee.

Walter F. Brown resigned his chairmanship of the Ohio state central committee after the state convention, and announced that he would resign from the national committee. He is the active head of the Roosevelt movement in Ohio.

G. C. Priestly, of Oklahoma, is also an active Roosevelt man, and took part in the Roosevelt national convention.

William S. Edwards, of West Virginia, was elected by the delegates to the regular Chicago convention, who were Roosevelt men, and has given no indication that he intends to support the regular ticket.

It is said that in North Carolina Mr. Pearson has done nothing whatever to further the cause of the national ticket, and members of the party in that state have asked Mr. Hilles if he could not have another man substituted for Mr. Pearson.

NOW IT IS STOCK BETTERMENT TRAIN

Pennsylvania Lines Will Carry Special From Purdue University to Mark New Movement.

FOR BETTER LIVE STOCK

[Special to the Daily Republican.] "The first week in October will mark the inauguration of a new movement for better live stock in Indiana," says an announcement sent out by G. I. Christie, superintendent of agricultural department, Purdue University.

"Arrangements have been completed with the Pennsylvania Lines to operate a Live Stock Improvement Special train on the two divisions—Logansport to Richmond, and Richmond to Union City, September 30 to October 5.

"The Pennsylvania Lines have operated special corn and wheat trains in co-operation with the Purdue University Experiment Station. The results from these trains have been very marked, and have meant much to both the railroad and the agricultural people. We hope to disseminate the best information on live stock production. The Animal Husbandry Department of the Purdue University Experiment Station has, perhaps, carried out more extensive investigations on beef-cattle feeding than any other department in the country. The results of this work will be presented from the train. Specimen feedings will be carried and exhibited at each stop. With the high price of feeding-cattle and the high price of feed, it is important that every one engaged in this business use the most up-to-date methods in his feeding operations. A full discussion of cattle and hog feeding in all of its phases will be given in the lectures. A short discussion will also be given on the selection of the type of feeders."

"Count Me For Taft."

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Warren E. Andrus, commonly referred to as "the richest man in Congress," is indignant over a rumor that he had fopped from the Republican to the Progressive party. He exhibits a copy of a letter just written to a friend in New York City, which reads:

"Yours of the 9th in regard to the Progressive party received, and will say that what you saw in the newspapers about my joining the Progressive party was entirely new to me. I am still a Republican and shall support the nominees of the Republican party at the polls."

It was said that the report started from the fact that his son-in-law, Frederick M. Davenport, is a candidate for lieutenant governor on the Progressive ticket.

Mr. Andrus has served several terms in Congress, but recently he declined to be designated for re-election.

SAY MOOSERS ARE PLAYING POLITICS

Prohibitionists Are Convinced Third Termers Are Not Letting the People Rule.

CAN'T COLLECT THEIR VOTES

[Special to the Daily Republican.] Chicago, Sept. 19.—One of the hardest blows that have been delivered to the Bull Moose party comes direct from the Prohibition camp, where the leaders of that party are preparing to send out pamphlets showing that they would, perhaps, have thrown much of their support toward the Progressives had they not been convinced that the Progressives were "playing politics" and not carrying out their policy of "let the people rule."

Some of the leaders, who declare that as a result of the Progressive "underhand work," Taft will have more votes than ever, say that when they approached prohibition interests regarding the liquor question in the Bull Moose platform such leaders as William Flinn, William Allen White and George Curry promised that such a plank would be included. As those men claim to have stuck out for a liquor plank, Prohibitionists say that the plank was left out of the platform at the suggestion of the great Bull Moose himself, because men like William Allen White who went to the convention determined that the plank should go in the platform, only after hearing from the great Bull Moose, ceased to fight for it.

The attitude of the Bull Moosers was to try to get both the votes of the temperance people and the votes of the liquor people by remaining silent, say the Prohibitionists and they will fail.

Nagel and Wilson To Tour.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel and Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture are winding up affairs in their departments in order to get away for several weeks on a speaking tour. Secretary Nagel will be the first to leave, and Secretary Wilson will be ready to start as soon as he completes the hearing of the pine rust, potato wart and fruit fly nuisance, which he is considered with a view to establishing a wide quarantine.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE CONVENTION

Concord, N. H., Sept. 18.—The state convention of the Republicans opened here today, with the delegates enthusiastic of the Maine election and predicting victory for Taft in November. It is believed that the practical forcing out of the party of Winston Churchill, and a few others with Progressive tendencies, has done much to strengthen the state Republicans. A full state ticket will be named.

SUE TO KICK OUT T. R. MEN.

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 18.—The Republican State Committee today began suit in the Supreme Court to put the Roosevelt electors off the state ticket. They expect today to be granted a writ of mandamus to prevent the secretary of state from certifying the Bull Moose names to the county auditors.

ROOSEVELT ORGANIZER QUILTS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Ralph C. Otis, wealthy lawyer, pioneer of the Bull Moose Party in Chicago, and treasurer and general manager of the Roosevelt Convention in this city, has announced that he was through with the Progressive Party. The radicals and impracticables have taken over the organization, in his opinion, and he wants nothing further to do with it. He asserts that almost all the business men originally in the movement are disgusted and are leaving it.

The officials of a western railway have recently instituted a "get acquainted" tour, in which conferences have been held with the citizens of the towns on the road, with the idea of furthering the interests of both parties.

FIRST YEAR VOTERS

They Should Vote With Republican Party.

It Has Stood for Progressive Policies Within Safe Lines and Has Given the Country Unexampled Prosperity.

Between three and four million young men in the United States will this year cast their first vote. Every one of them should vote for President Taft and the Republican party.

In choosing his political affiliation the first voter should thoroughly study the platforms, principles and records of the great political parties, before allying himself with either. If he goes into the record of facts impartially, he cannot escape the conviction that his choice must be with the Republican party. From Lincoln to Taft, with one single exception, every president of the United States has accepted the inspiring Republican doctrine. The Republican party preserved the Union, abolished slavery, freed Cuba, rescued the Philippines and Porto Rico from three centuries of Spanish tyranny, secured the open door of trade in China and is building the Panama Canal—making the old world dream of centuries come true and readjusting the world's highways of commerce. In addition to all this, its beneficent policies and wise administration have resulted in the progress of the nation, with commercial development and national wealth reaching a point almost beyond imagination.

Democrats Are Destructive.

On the other hand, the first voter will find that the Democratic party has always been an obstructive and destructive party instead of constructive; that when in power it has always brought disaster to the country not only because of its incapacity and incompetency, but also because it has invariably destroyed manufacturing interests by attempting to foist free trade upon the American people.

It has always been on the wrong side of everything, and if it could have had its way would have destroyed the credit of the nation with the free coinage of silver. In the last Democratic administration the national debt increased and distrust and panic paralyzed the great industrial system of the country. The value of farm products decreased $500,000,000, banks closed, business firms failed, factories were silent and three million able-bodied men were begging for work. These things happened during the short administration of the Democratic party, which has done nothing for progress, nothing for the cause of liberty and freedom, and nothing for the glory of our common country, for more than half a century.

Republican Party Will Live.

The first voter will not be received by the attack now made upon the Republican party by men who are smarting under the sting of disappointed ambition. This is not the first year in which the Republican party has been subjected to similar experiences. There was the bolt of the Liberal Republicans to Horace Greeley in 1872, the defections in the early '90's to the Farmers' Alliance, Greenback and Populist parties and the withdrawal of the Silver Republicans in 1896. Republican presidents—Lincoln, Grant and McKinley—have been loaded with the vilest abuse by their contemporaries just as President Taft is assailed today. But the Republican party has survived all these experiences just as it will survive the present attempt to bring about its destruction.

The men who left the Republican party in the past have gone down to political oblivion. Those who have remained with the Republican party have, on the contrary, proudly participated in its great achievements.

The Republican party offers to the first voter the splendid record of its past and the glorious promise of its future.

What Happened.

Ah, if the workmen of this country could only know how they have been fooled about the protective tariff working for their benefit. Why, if the protective tariff was relieved at a great many points, this is what would happen, that American industry would take on a new size and speed.—Prof. Wilson.

Why, certainly that is what would happen—just as it did the last time the protective tariff was "relieved."

Getting Back to Normal.

From the St. Louis Times: The one unmistakable political tendency at present is the country-wide recognition of the rare merits of President Taft. A period of normal reflection has set in. The shout has had its day and the intelligent inquiry, the frank recognition of facts, have arrived.

The Difference.

From the Belvedere (Ill.) Republican: The difference between the Roosevelt and Taft administrations is that Mr. Roosevelt talked loudly against those whom he called "malefactors," and secretly protected some of them from the law, while Mr. Taft has made no threats, but has just enforced the laws.

If you are too young to remember what happened the last time the Democratic party was in power, ask some older man who was in business then. There is no danger that he will have forgotten it.

SOCIALISTS RIOT IN BUDA PEST STREETS

Bloodshed Follows Disturbance in Parliament.

Buda Pest, Sept. 19.—There was serious street rioting following the violent scenes in parliament. Socialists had been summoned by their leaders to make a demonstration in favor of electoral reform and against such parliamentary abuses as the forcible exclusion of members of the opposition.

The police forbade processions and meetings and ordered all houses closed. The Right Socialists, however, ignored these orders and gathered in the streets. The police broke up the crowd and prevented any of the leaders from making speeches. The demonstrators became more turbulent and later threw down the gas lamps on Elisabethstrasse, thus leaving the whole neighborhood in darkness.

The police charged with swords and the mob replied with stones and bottles. Several persons used revolvers. The streetcar service was suspended, but the mob captured two or three cars and made bonfires of them. The mounted police then joined in the charging and overturned and trampled on about 200 people, many of whom were severely injured.

The offices of the newspapers were attacked and some were not able to publish today.

Odd Fellows Elect Officers.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 18.—C. A. Kellar of San Antonio, Tex., was chosen grand sire of the sovereign lodge, I. O. O. F., by acclamation. Other officers chosen were: Judge Robert F. Daniel, Georgia, deputy grand sire; John B. Goodwin, Baltimore, re-elected grand secretary, and M. Richard Muckle, Philadelphia, re-elected grand treasurer.

Eleventh District Nomination.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 19.—Dr. J. W. G. Stewart of Wabash was nominated for congress by the Republicans of the Eleventh district in convention here.

A STORING UP OF WRATH TO COME

Mexican Depredations Against Americans Continue.

WITHOUT SIGN OF ABATEMENT

The Cold-Blooded Murder of Two More Americans Has Just Been Reported to Washington, While Reports of Continued Pillage of American Mining and Other Properties in Trouble Zone Show Temper of Rebels.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Reports to the state department tell of the murder of two Americans in Mexico. George Retterman, an American blacksmith who formerly lived at Wichita, is reported to have been murdered at Cusiuriachic on the night of Sept. 15. No particulars of this murder are yet known. The other murder reported is that of Jacob Mayer, also an American, whose headless body was found by some of his neighbors at San Pedro Maren. The body with the head cut off was found in the house Mayer occupied, and it was evident, the reports state, that he had been dead many days. When the murder was committed, by whom, or under what circumstances is not known, but it is presumed that members of one of the many marauding rebel bands are responsible. The local Mexican authorities in Mexico have promised to make a thorough investigation.

While no official statement has ever been given out regarding the number of Americans killed in Mexico during the present revolution, it is understood that it is considerable.

Rumors of disloyalty to the Madero government existing among officers and men of the federal army of the north continue to reach the state department from all sources. While nothing has yet happened which absolutely confirms the rumors, there is still much reason to believe that there is a good deal of truth in them.

Depredations on the property of Americans continue without any sign of abatement. The Batopilas Mining company has reported that the town of Batopilas has been captured by the rebels, who are demanding $7,500 from the company under threat of looting and destruction to its property.

General Steever reports that he has sent Pascual Orozco, sr., father of the rebel commander, and four officers of Orozco's staff to Marfa, Tex. Mexico has made no request for the extradition of Orozco, sr. and the captive members of Orozco's staff, nor is it expected that such a request will be made. The men will be held indefinitely, however, by United States forces.

FORMER SENATOR DEAD

Money of Mississippi Succumbs to Injuries Due to a Fall.

Gulfport, Miss., Sept. 19.—Former Senator Hernando De Soto Money is dead as a result of a fall from the gallery of his residence at Fair Haven, near here. The fall resulted in a fracture of his hip. The end came after several days of intense suffering. His health had been failing recently, and it was due to bad eyesight that he made his fatal misstep. Senator Money was considered the last of the representatives of the old south in congress.

At the age of twenty, when the civil war broke out, Money enlisted in the Confederate army and after a gallant career, in which he attained the rank of captain, he resigned in 1864 because of injury to his sight which afflicted him through his later life.

BUMPER CROP

Will Require Movement of Money From Government Vaults.

Washington, Sept. 19.—To prevent money stringency during the moving of the bumper crops this fall the officials of the treasury department are considering making deposits of from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 among the banks in the farming region out of the surplus money in the government vaults. The secretary of the treasury has ample authority to use his discretion whenever a stringency is threatened, and it is the opinion of treasury officials that the record-breaking crops this year will require more money to harvest and market them than can be provided by the banks in the great agricultural states of the west without forcing oppressively high loaning rates in the commercial centers.

Wilson's "Economics."

The American farmer who would vote the Democratic ticket with the Wilson statement right in front of him would not be merely cutting off his nose to spite his face; he would be proving himself deaf, dumb and blind.

It is hardly necessary to say that Wilson's assertion that "the farmer has never been protected because he does not need protection," is not, as he calls it "an economic fact." This is where the impractical pedagogue, who knows nothing of the hard facts of life, shows his narrow view of life. He says in effect, that if the American farmer has a hundred bushels of potatoes to sell, and is able to sell ninety-nine bushels here in the United States and sends the bushel left over to be sold in Liverpool or London at any old price the price of that bushel in Liverpool or London fixes the price of the ninety-nine bushels in America. Why, Johnny who drives your cows would laugh if you told him that! And the man who talks that nonsense thinks he is fit and the Democratic party says he is fit, to be President of the United States!

Every farmer knows, or should know, that the American market fixes his prices, because it is the market in which he sells, and which is all the world to him, and big enough to be all the world to him. The foreign market fixes the price only for the surplus, of what is left over from the sale at home. That's common sense just as it is common experience.

But if Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic party were to be installed at Washington and allowed to carry out their program of "no protection for the farmer because he does not need protection," we would soon see the foreigner fixing American prices for the American farmer, while keeping his own market, in Canada, Germany, France, Russia, Italy, Argentina, etc., barricaded, as it were, against free trade with America.

The American farmer is noted for practical common sense, and for an appreciation of the conditions which have brought him independence, comfort, and not a few luxuries, and he is not likely, therefore, just to spite President Taft, to place himself and his family in competition with the German peasant and the Russian monk.

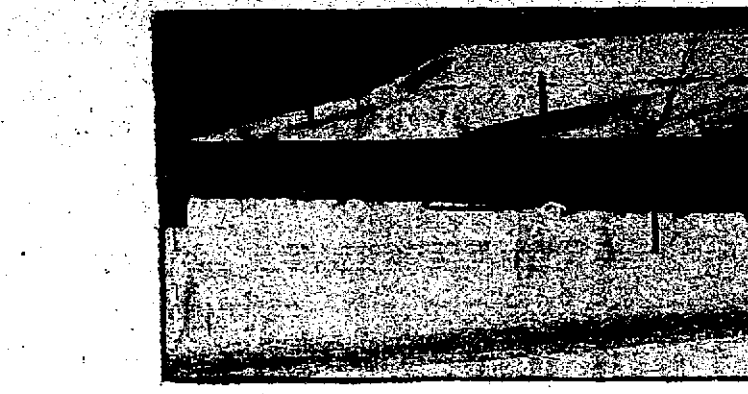

The American farmer has "a good thing" and he knows it, and will keep it by voting the Republican ticket.

First Views Real Ones.

Since he emerged from the cloistered seclusion of Princeton university into the mad whirl of politics, Professor Wilson has not led a happy life. When he was a college instructor and writing books which contained his real view, and when he was teaching young men through academic addresses, he wrote and said things which now, as a newly-fledged candidate, he deeply regrets.

We can well understand that Professor Wilson does not now like to be confronted with his denunciation of organized labor, his severe reflection upon the character of the immigrants from southern Europe and his protest against the payment of pensions to old soldiers. It is easy to imagine that all these things rise up to plague him. He realizes that they are things that no candidate for the presidency should have said.

As a matter of fact, they should not have been said by any American citizen who had the welfare of his country at heart. They show that Professor Wilson is a theorist, a person of shifting views without positive convictions, a man not of the people. He can not now honestly assert that he did not mean what he said. What he believed then he believes now.

The place best adapted for holding a meeting such as will begin in Rushville next Sunday evening, September 22, is a building such as the above picture illustrates.

Sam Sanderson Says:

We extend to Professor Wilson our sincere sympathy in his dilemma. He is having troubles of his own. While he is explaining and shifting uneasily from one foot to the other, President Taft stands firmly upon the splendid record of his administration and of the Republican party and needs neither apology nor defense.

A Striking Contrast.

The Sixty-first Congress, with a Republican majority in each house, under the steady but not spectacular pressure of President Taft, enacted more progressive and sound legislation than has stood to the credit of any Congress in generations. The Sixty-second Congress, having a Democratic majority in the House, closed its second session with a startling record of things left undone. Barely has a Congress exhibited more ineptitude in legislation than this. It well merits the criticism of James R. Mann, Republican leader, who declares that "this Congress has enacted laws fewer in number and of less importance than any session in recent years."

Among the measures enacted by the Sixty-first Congress in the first two years of President's Taft's administration are the following: Providing for an excise tax on corporations, a law which is working most satisfactorily and producing a handsome revenue; establishing a postal savings bank system; improving and perfecting the employers' liability act; reorganizing and reforming the consular service; creating a tariff board, which has secured a large amount of valuable data for guidance in tariff legislation; suppressing the white slave traffic, under which law many convictions have been secured and the traffic nearly broken up; providing for the fortification of the Panama Canal; amendments for strengthening the interstate commerce law; improvements in the laws on the subject of safety appliances for railroads; for the suppression of the issuance of fraudulent bills of lading.

Contrast this with the almost blank record of the sixty-second congress. "I said last December," said Mr. Mann the other day, "that this session would last longer and do less than any other regular session of recent years. My forecast proved correct."

Organized labor of Ohio is in hearty accord with the views of President Taft regarding the necessity for the reduction in the high cost of living. A committee was recently appointed to take up the matter with the Republicans and a plan was outlined indorsing the work of President Taft in this direction, and making recommendations that will bring the farmer and consumer into closer relations thereby eliminating the waste and providing ways of defeating middlemen who are not disposed to be satisfied with a reasonable profit. The movement of the Ohio laboring men, whose plan of campaign was submitted through their especially appointed delegate, H. W. Brewer, who was sent to New York for that purpose, was received with favor. Mr. Brewer returned to Ohio after telling National Chairman Hilles that Taft would have a united labor and farmer vote in Ohio.

Unblushing Mendacity.

"We stand for equal rights as a fact of life, instead of a catchword of politics."

This if from a Roosevelt-Johnson card that is being distributed in various cities with the title of "Key-note." Its measure of truth is exemplified in Roosevelt's open rejection of the right of millions of colored Americans to political representation. No harsher blow has been aimed at equal rights since the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the constitution of the United States.

The "Key-note" of the Third Term party evidently seems to be unblushing mendacity.

In the course of his speech-making in Pennsylvania, Woodrow Wilson had his hand gripped so tightly by a blacksmith that he winced with pain and was unable to use the hand for some time. Blacksmith probably wanted to get square with him for saying in his "History" that American workmen are inferior to the Chinese.

"Gabby George," as a newspaper calls Perkins, will have to work those women in his Harvester Trust mills day as well as night if he is to meet the demands of the hungry mob in New York State who are howling for the third term and an appropriation.

The one absolute guarantee for the country against another Roosevelt panic and another four years of Democratic depression and bankruptcy, such as we had in 1894-97, is to remain in the safe harbor of Taft good times by voting for the Republican platform and candidates.

Cattle.

TAKES 6 CARS TO HAUL THEM

One of the largest stock deals that as been consummated by a local butcher in some months was closed Tuesday in Louisville, Ky., when Cary Patton, a wealthy farmer, of near Milroy, purchased one hundred and fifty head of feeders, says the Greensburg News.

Mr. Patton made a flying trip when he consummated this deal. He drove to this city Tuesday morning in his automobile, caught the 5 o'clock passenger for Falls City and after making his purchase, which cost him a small fortune, he came back over the B. & O. to North Vernon and reached Greensburg again in the afternoon about 5 o'clock.

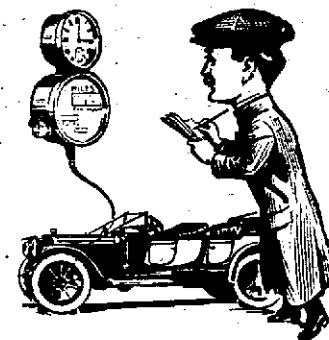

The cattle were loaded Tuesday and in six car loads arrived and were unloaded at Williamstown Wednesday morning. They are all feeders and will be fattened for the eastern markets on Mr. Patton's farm.

Edward Bond, State Factory Inspector Finds a Number of Violations in Rushville.

2 EXITS FOR 3 STORY ONES

As the result of a visit of Edward Bond, State factory inspector, here today, it may be necessary to erect a lot of fire escapes around Rushville. That there are several law violations in Rushville was the declaration of the inspector. The only building in the city having a fire escape is the Windsor hotel.

"The law says that every building over two stories high shall have at least two exits," the inspector said. "There are a number of buildings here which do not comply with this. I can't understand why the last inspector overlooked so many around here. I have been taking a peep at some of the lodge halls and hotels."

LEG IS BROKEN; ASKS $2500 DAMAGES

J. W. Trennepohle Files Suit Against
Rush County Men and Tipton
Construction Company.

INJURED IN GRAVEL CAVE-IN

John W. Trennepohle brought suit in the circuit court this afternoon for twenty-five hundred dollars damages against John T. Johnson and Frank T. Trennepohle of this county, and B. W. Goff and William H. Kelyla, doing business under the firm name of Goff-Kleyla Construction Company of Tipton. Trennepohle alleges that he was hauling gravel from a pit on the Johnson farm for the Penelon-Kirkpatrick road No. 1, for which the Goff-Kleyla Construction Company when he was injured by a caving bank of gravel. The accident happened June 20, this year. He asserts that his leg was broken and that he was totally disabled so that he can not work and is compelled to remain at home all the time. He says he expended two hundred dollars for doctor bill.

James McCormie brought suit on a note in court this afternoon against W. D. Martin, demanding $150.

Court was rather quiet today. This afternoon Frank J. Pittsford was granted a divorce from Mary N. Pittsford.

CURT GOSNELL WINS.

CARY PATTON PUTS ACROSS BIG DEAL

Milroy Stockman Spends Small Fortune in a Day by Purchasing Cattle.

TAKES 6 CARS TO HAUL THEM

One of the largest stock deals that as been consummated by a local butcher in some months was closed Tuesday in Louisville, Ky., when Cary Patton, a wealthy farmer, of near Milroy, purchased one hundred and fifty head of feeders, says the Greensburg News.

Mr. Patton made a flying trip when he consummated this deal. He drove to this city Tuesday morning in his automobile, caught the 5 o'clock passenger for Falls City and after making his purchase, which cost him a small fortune, he came back over the B. & O. to North Vernon and reached Greensburg again in the afternoon about 5 o'clock.

The cattle were loaded Tuesday and in six car loads arrived and were unloaded at Williamstown Wednesday morning. They are all feeders and will be fattened for the eastern markets on Mr. Patton's farm.

ANANIAS CLUB HAS A HEATED SESSION

Bull Moosers and Republicans Have to be Separated in Order to Prevent a Row.

POLITICS IS ALL TO BLAME

The Ananias club had an animated session in the court house this morning. Politics, that was it. Two able orators of the club clashed over the intrinsic worth of the Republican and Bull Moose parties. One was a Republican, and the other one was, too, once upon a time. He defended the Big Bull Moose in a matchless burst of oratory. A stalwart Republican and a veteran of the Civil war—they were both veterans of this war, however—came to the rescue of the Grand Old Party. He withstood the attacks made on it and defended its fair charter with an effort worthy a veteran campaigner. The discussion waxed warm—it became heated. In fact, The Bull Mooser applied some epithets to the champion of the G. O. P. that were far from pleasing, and something bordering on a fight ensued. The Republican party defender jumped up hastily, seized his chair and would probably have struck the third party man if other members had not interfered.

SCHOOL NOTES

By Prof. J. H. Scholl.

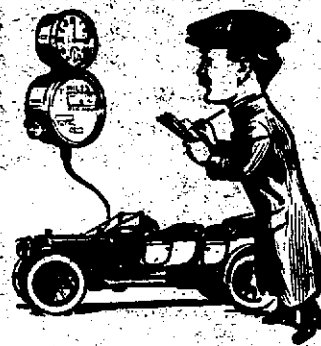

The time for opening and closing the daily sessions has been changed, and for this reason we wish to call the attention of the patrons:

FIRST ANNUAL SALE OF DUROC JERSEYS

65 Head of Pure Bred Duroc Jersey Swine 65

The best lot of stock to be found in Indiana, at Falmouth, Indiana

Thursday, October 3, 1912

BEGINNING AT 12 O'CLOCK SHARP

These pigs are sired by the following boars: C. E. Orion, 23839, sired by the Great Orion Chief. The old hog lies buried on the Matern farm in Illinois, having died July 19th. No hog did more for the Durocs than did Orion Chief. His daughters have been among the best sows and as a class among the top brood sows of the breed, while he has also put many sons at the head of herds.

Perry's Top Col. was sired by Col. S.; Col. S. by King of Cols. Perry's Top Col. is a great hog. He is two years old and weighs 700 pounds.

Falmouth Pilot was sired by Kelley's Pilot wonder. The dams of offering are nearly all sired by high priced, winning boars.

BROTHER BREEDERS come out and spend the day with me, see these great sires, hear the Colonels talk, and eat a good dinner. Dinner will be served free promptly at 11 o'clock by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Fairview Christian Church.

TERMS MADE KNOWN ON DAY OF SALE

Parties coming from a distance will be entertained at the Windsor Hotel, Rushville, by E. K. Morris at my expense by registering and telling the clerk they will attend the sale of B. M. Perry.

Pennsylvania train will leave Rushville for Falmouth at 10:30 a. m. Those failing to come night before sale will be met at Glenwood I. & C. Traction Station at 10 o'clock and 11 o'clock cars on day of sale.

The Sable Lorcha
BY
Horace Hazeltine

(Copyright, 1912, A. C. McClure & Co.)

We spent the better part of the day golfing over the Apawamis links at Rye, lunching at the club house between rounds, for as a specific for nerves I have ever found that game of rare benefit. In the present instance it more than fulfilled my expectations. Cameron, apparently at least, forgot everything save his desire to out-drive, out-approach, and out-put me. And when it was over, and with sharpened appetites we drove back to Cragholt for dinner, he appeared stimulated by a new-found courage.

The day had passed without untoward event, and I felt sure that my friend was gradually coming around to my way of thinking. Neither of us mentioned the subject, but it must have occurred to him, at intervals, as it did to me. And as the hours went by without a sign, the conviction grew that Murphy, with hands tied, was fretting over the coup he was deterred from compassing.

Mrs. Lancaster, whom I have mentioned merely as Cameron's housekeeper, but who was, in addition, a distant kinswoman and acted as a sort of duenna to Evelyn, dined with us that evening, and our little party seemed to me more than usually merry, owing doubtless to the relaxation of the strain which both Cameron and I had been under for the past week.

It gratified me to see my host so unfeignedly cheerful. I remember how he laughed over Mrs. Lancaster's recital of an incident of the morning. "I had no idea," she said, "that Andrew," referring to the kennel master, "was married. He astonished me when he told me he had a wife and three children. And when I told him he did not look like a married man he seemed rather pleased than otherwise."

"It is odd," Cameron returned, "but it seems always to flatter a husband to tell him he doesn't look it." And then he laughed as though he had no care on earth.

After dinner we had the usual music, and Evelyn sang again that lyric of Baudelaire's, this time in the original French. But the melody brought back to me in vivid vision our chance meeting in the woods and all its train of circumstances.

When I had finished applauding, Cameron turned to me. "Do you like Baudelaire?" "I like his art," I answered, "and his frank artificiality."

"He appeals to me," Cameron confessed, "decadent though he is. I have read everything he ever wrote, I think, prose and verse. Did you ever see my copy of his 'Fleurs du Mal'? The book is worthy of its contents. It is the most exquisitely bound little volume I ever saw. Come, I'll show it to you."

I excused myself to Mrs. Lancaster, and with pretended formality bent over Evelyn's hand, brushing it with my lips.

"Won't you be back?" she whispered.

"I hope so," was my answer. "But I can't promise."

"Oh, what a trial it is to have a selfish uncle!" she murmured as I went.

Cameron led me through the library, across the hall, and thence into his study, where he dove into a miniature book rack reserved for his favorites. After a moment of fruitless search he said:

"It isn't here. How stupid! I took it upstairs a week ago. I remember."

It is in my dressing room. Do you mind coming up?"

Did I mind coming up? How glad I was to see him interested! He was more like the old Cameron than he had been at any time in the past seven days. My golf prescription had proved even more efficacious than I had dared hope.

At the risk of being tedious I must describe Cameron's dressing room. It was not large—probably 20 feet square—with three doors; one on each of the three sides. That which admitted from the passageway faced that which opened into the bath room. On the left, the third door connected with Cameron's bedroom. On the right were two windows, giving upon an outside balcony. Between them was a fire-place.

To the left of the bath room door was the entrance to a huge closet, guarded by a heavy curtain of old rose velvet. To the right, was a stationary wash-stand, and above it a rectangular mirror, probably ten inches wide and a foot long, and very curiously framed. Across from this, against the wall which divided the room from the passage, was an enormous chiffonier, or chest of drawers. In the room's center was a round table, on which rested a reading lamp. Between the table and the fire-place was a reclining chair. Other chairs, three or four, were variously placed.

I have given these facts because they are necessary to an intelligent understanding of what I am about to relate. That in furnishing and adornment the room was plainly utilitarian is not so material. But there is one exception to this general declaration which demands to be specified. The mirror above the wash-stand possessed a distinction quite aside from its practical utility. This was by no means the first time I had seen it. Cameron had showed it to me, with a degree of pride, early in our acquaintance, explaining that it was at once a relic and an heirloom. Originally the property of Nell Gwynne, it had descended to him through three or four generations of maternal ancestors.

The glass was framed in colored beadwork, to which were attached wax figures in high relief: at the top, a miniature portrait of Charles II. in his state robes; at the bottom, one of Nell herself, in court dress. The king appeared also on the right, in hunting costume, and on the left was another figure of his favorite in less ornamental garb. According to the legend which accompanied this, interesting antique, it was Nell Gwynne's own handiwork.

It possessed for me a certain fascination due more to its history than its beauty, for it was not the most artistic of creations, and as Cameron poked about for his Baudelaire, I stood gazing at the glass and thinking of all I had ever read of the illiterate, but saucy, sprightly actress whose sole claim to fame hung on her winning the favor of that easy-going, royal hypocrite, Charles II.

"Here's the binding!" I heard Cameron say, and turned from the mirror to the table, where he had found his sought-for treasure beneath a pile of heavier, grosser works.

"You know something of book-binding," he went on, with enthusiasm. "Now examine that carefully, and tell me if you ever saw anything more exquisite. I had it done in London, last year. It's a copy of one of Le Gascon's."

At first sight it seemed all glittering gold, but on closer inspection I found that the groundwork was bright red morocco, inlaid with buff, olive, and marble leather, the spaces closely filled with very delicate and beautiful pointillé traceries. It was a veritable gem in its way, and I could not blame Cameron for his raptures.

When I had applauded, and he praised to his content, he took the little volume from my hand, and opening it, with a sort of slow reverence, observed with something like patronism:

"I'm afraid you don't quite understand Baudelaire."

"Does anybody?" I flung back.

"He is not so obscure as his critics would have us believe," Cameron asserted. "Sit down in that lounging chair a moment, and I'll read you something." And as I obeyed, he drew up a chair for himself, speaking all the while in denunciation of Tolstol and the injustice of his criticism.

One poem after another he read, while I lay back listening. To his credit he read them well, though he seemed somewhat nervous. He had a fine voice, and a good sense of rhythm.

association or as rooted in the past. "an intentional obscenity."

There was one verse which impressed me particularly as he read it, and remained with me for a long while afterwards, for, in view of everything, it seemed to have a special appositeness. The lines to which I refer have been translated in this way:

From Heaven's high balconies
See in their throats the red
Years cast their eyes.
And from the depths below regret's was Smile appears.

Cameron sat with his back to the door leading to the passageway, and facing, diagonally, across the table, the Nell Gwynne mirror. My own gaze was on him as he read.

As he finished the verse, a portion of which I have quoted, he lifted his eyes, I thought to meet mine, but his look rose over my head, and clung, while his lids widened, and into every line of his face there came a rigid, startled expression, half amazement, half horror. And in that instant of tense silence the "Fleurs du Mal" slipped from his nerveless fingers, struck the table edge, and dropped with unseemly echo to the floor.

In a breath I was on my feet and staring where his vision had focussed. I hardly knew what I expected to see. I am sure nothing would have surprised me. And yet I was scarcely prepared for the inexplicable ruin which my sight encountered. The glass of the Nell Gwynne mirror was in atoms.

Cameron rose, a little unsteadily I thought, and coming around the table, joined me in closer inspection of his wrecked hereditament. I can find no word adequate to the description of what we experienced. Amazement and all its synonyms are far too feeble for the task. We were certainly more than appalled. What we saw suggested to me spontaneous disintegration. If such a thing were possible, which I believe it is not, it might have explained the condition of the mirror. No other ascription seemed admissible; for, though the glass remained in its frame not so much as a splinter having been dropped, it was fractured into a thousand tiny pieces, resembling a crystal mosaic, incapable of any but the most minute reflections. And the change to this condition from a fair, unmarred panel had been wrought without sound and seemingly without human agency.

For just a moment Cameron stared in dumb awe. When he turned to me he appeared suddenly to have aged. His eyes were lustreless, and his cheeks were a gray pallor.

"My God!" he murmured in a kind of breathless whisper.

I would have given a great deal to have been able to allay that terror of the palpable which was gripping him. But I was helpless. Shocked and astounded, myself, solace was not at my command. More to escape the piteous appeal of his silent gaze than in hope of making discovery, I turned in haste to one of the long windows which opened on the outer balcony. Drawing back the sashes and flinging them wide, I stepped outside and, listening, over the railing.

But the night was strangely still. There was no sound, even, of stirring leaves. A brooding hush seemed spread over all the outdoor world—that ominous silence which often precedes the breaking of a storm. I looked up to find the heavens wrapped in a pall of ink cloud. And then, with a feeling of having fled from a lesser to a greater evil, I returned to the lighted room, and closed the window to shut out the horror of the night.

Cameron was standing where I had left him. He looked woefully tired and haggard.

"Explain it!" he cried, hoarsely. "My God, Clyde, explain it!"

"I would to Heaven I could," was my forlorn reply.

CHAPTER VII.

"From Sight of Men Into Torment."

Seldom have I passed a more miserable hour than that which followed upon the seeming phenomenon I have described. Cameron was nervously in tatters and my own pulse was something more than threatened. The sight of a usually brave, strong, self-contained person of stolidly phlegmatic temperament transformed into a relaxed, nerveless, apprehensive creature is enough of itself to try one's fortitude, even with the most favorable collateral conditions. And the collateral conditions here were quite the reverse. That which had affected Cameron had exerted an influence upon me as well, knowing, as I did, all the circumstances and being interested, as I was, in my friend's problem. And so while his plight tore at my heartstrings, my own inability to grapple with the mystery contributed an added mental distress.

To my dismay I found Cameron quite incapable of anything approaching a calm, common-sense discussion of the matter, and realized to the full the mischief which this last performance, coming as a climax upon a week of more or less disquietude, had effected.

He sat most of the time with head bent forward and knees doubled, his toes touching the floor but his heels raised and in constant vibrating movement, as though stricken with palsy. The fingers of one hand toyed incessantly, too, with the fingers of the other, in a variety of twisting, snakelike involutions. In vain I endeavored to arouse him; to stir in him a spirit of retaliation. Some one was playing tricks upon him, and that some one must be discovered and brought to justice. Common sense told us that, however mysterious these happenings appeared, they could not have occurred without human agency. It was our task to discover the agent and punish him. This was my line of argument; but through it all, Cameron sat unmoved and unresponsive.

And then there came to me again, that unwelcome suspicion that all along he had been hiding something from me; that he divined the cause and the source of the persecution, but for some reason of his own would not divulge them.

I rang for one of the footmen and had some brandy brought, and forced Cameron to swallow a stiff drink of it, in which I joined him. But even this stimulant had small effect upon him. And when, finally, I reluctantly bade him good-night, I was overwhelmed by the pathos of his condition. So wrought and tortured, indeed, was I, by the sad picture of de-throned courage which followed me home, that sleep fled me and left me wide-eyed until the dawn.

The tidings which came to me with my coffee that morning were more than half expected. Cameron was ill, and his physician had been summoned from New York.

When I reached Cragholt the doctor had come and gone, and a trained nurse was in attendance. Evelyn, meeting me in the hall, conveyed this intelligence in a breath, and then, laying hold upon me, a slender hand upon each coat sleeve, her big eyes pleading and anxious, she ran on:

"It is shock, Dr. Massey says. De-ferred shock, he called it. He says Uncle Robert has suffered from some sudden grief, fright, or other dreadful mental impression. His temperature is way below normal and his pulse is a sort of rapid feeble flutter. Oh, do tell me what you know about it. What shock has he had? You were with him last evening. He was gay enough when you and he went from the music room. What happened afterward?"

Carelessly I rested my palms upon her shoulders.

"My dear little girl," I said, soothingly. "I am sorry I can't satisfy your very natural curiosity."

"But it isn't curiosity," she corrected, promptly. "It's interest."

"Well, interest then. I'm sorry, I say. Something did happen; but to tell you just what it was, and why it was a shock to him, I am not able. Not now, at least. Maybe, some day, you'll know all about it."

There never was a more reasonable young person than Evelyn Grayson. Most girls, I fancy, would have teased and grown peevish at being denied. But she seemed to understand.

"Do you want to see Uncle?" she asked me.

"I don't believe it would be wise," I answered. "Probably I, being a reminder, might do him harm. Tell me how he seems? He isn't unconscious?"

To be continued.

MEMBERS GIVEN NOTICE TO QUIT

Accused of Disloyalty to the President.
OTHERS ALLOWED TO RESIGN

Republican National Committee Takes Important Action in Purging Roll of Its Membership in Those States Where There Remained Certain Republican Committeemen Whose Preference Was For Roosevelt.

New York, Sept. 19.—At its meeting here the Republican national committee expelled four members of the committee who favor Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for president. Three others who are for Roosevelt were allowed to resign. In each case the accusation was disloyalty to the party and President Taft.

The four peremptorily ousted are: California, Russ Avery of Los Angeles, succeeded by a man selected by committee; New Jersey, Borden D. Whiting of Newark, succeeded by ex-Governor Franklin D. Murphy; North Carolina, Richard Pearson of Asheville, to be succeeded by ex-State Committeeman E. C. Duncan; West Virginia, W. S. Edwards of Wheeling, successor to be indicated by state committee. The committee selected Charles A. Spiess as successor to Solomon Luna of New Mexico, who is dead.

The three whose resignations were accepted are: Oklahoma, G. D. Priestly of Pottsville, succeeded by J. A. Harris; Ohio, Walter F. Brown, succeeded by Sherman A. Granger; Minnesota, J. A. Carswell of St. Paul, successor to be indicated by state committee.

The Californian, Russ Avery, sent a telegram of resignation in which he told Mr. Hilles that "there is no more Republican party in California." Instead of letting him resign the national committee fired him.

All this decapitation was done by unanimous vote of the committeemen and proxies representing all except thirteen states. It was cheerfully stated that the committee has got rid of all of its "bad blood" and can now go ahead in solid formation to elect President Taft. The cases were presented one at a time. None of the offending members were present and no protests were received. It was believed that all of the ousted men would acquiesce in the decision.

Aside from this little job of housecleaning, the national committee busied itself most with two important programs vexing it. The problems have to do with Kansas and Nebraska, where electors chosen on a Taft ticket are determined to vote for Colonel Roosevelt, and with California, where the Republican party is temporarily shot to pieces, the result of the primary, which gave the Progressives possession of the old party name emblem.

The committee met the Kansas-Nebraska predicament by passing a resolution asking the pro-Roosevelt electors, six in each state, to kindly get off the ticket. It was decided in the case of California to rehabilitate the Republican party right away. This task will be intrusted to a special committee to be named by Chairman Hilles. The special committee will go to California, select a name to replace the party designation which the Roosevelt people have appropriated, and push the Taft campaign hard.

Mr. Hilles, in an opening speech evidencing the whole field, told his comrades that the situation may have looked bad at the start of the campaign because 100 electors selected for Taft had declared they would cast their ballots for the colonel. But he added that the Taft strategists in one way and another had reduced this number to Nebraska's six and Kansas's six and that the only bothersome state remaining was California, which he hoped to straighten out soon.

Marital Law Extended.
Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 19.—Fifteen armed mine guards were arrested by soldiers when marital law in the Kanawha coal strike district was extended to include Kingston and Keokertown, mining towns in Fayette county. The guards were charged with carrying firearms and doing police duty in violation of the state law. They will be tried before the military commission.

A Bloody Battle.
Rome, Sept. 19.—The most sanguinary engagement of the war in Tripoli has just been fought near Derne. The Italians lost sixty-one men and 113 wounded. The Turks and Arabs left more than 800 dead on the field. Forty-one prisoners, including an Arab chief, fell into the hands of the Italians.

Promises Justice to Indians.
Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 19.—Colonel Roosevelt, traversing New Mexico, told the Indians that he would do justice to them if elected, as he had done justice to them when he was president.

Don't Furry Long in Chicago.
Chicago, Sept. 19.—Governor Wilson arrived here from St. Paul this morning at 9 o'clock, and after holding a session at the Democratic headquarters, left for Detroit at 10:30.

How to Get Rid of Gypsies.
Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—Aroused by reports from various parts of the state that bands of gypsies are attacking children and attempting to extort money from citizens, state officials are discussing the need of a statute regulating the conduct of gypsies. Dan M. Link, a member of the state board of tax commissioners, says that a license fee tax is levied on gypsies in Virginia. He says the law keeps them out of the state.

"The New York state Democratic convention will assemble in Syracuse on Oct. 1.

Taft at Rochester.
Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Republican state leaders in this section of the State today wired enthusiastic reports to the eastern and western headquarters of the National Republican Committee as a result of the visit of President Taft at the celebration of the centennial of Rochester. The farmers, particularly, many of whom visited Syracuse last week to hear Governor Wilson declare that the Democratic and Progressive platforms are "all in" after the attack made on them by President Taft.

Notice of Election.
The members of the Rush County Farmers Insurance Association are hereby notified to meet at the assembly room in the court house in Rushville, Indiana, on Saturday, October 12, 1912, at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may come before said meeting.

Soldiers Held Reunion.
Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 19.—About 1,500 soldiers and their wives attended the annual picnic and reunion of Indiana civil war veterans held on the grounds of the State Soldiers' home. Officers of the institution with the band of musicians and the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" were the order of the day.

Trying to Get Together.
Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—Negotiations for uniting the systems of the Indianapolis and Central Union telephone companies have been renewed in an informal manner by the two companies with the board of public works. The board's belief that the companies would be willing to unify under the franchise of the Indianapolis Telephone company.

New York, Sept. 19.—William H. K. Redmond, member of parliament and a brother of the Irish leader, John E. Redmond, is coming to the United States to make a tour of the principal cities and give his interpretation of the home rule bill now before the house of commons. He is on the White Star liner Baltic, due tomorrow.

MOVEMENT FOR BETTER HEALTH

Chief Topic for National Conservation Congress.
INDIANA TAKING THE LEAD

Thomas R. Shipp, Executive Secretary of the Congress, Who Has Been in Conservation Movement Since Its Inception, Points Out Peculiar Fitness of This Great Topic For Discussion in Meeting at Hoosier Capital.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—Out of the meeting of the National Conservation congress in this city next month, is expected to develop a national sentiment in favor of national and state laws for the conservation of life and health and a more general observance by the people of methods of safeguarding human life. This assertion is made by Thomas R. Shipp, executive secretary of the congress, who addressed the ways and means committee of the Commercial club. Mr. Shipp, who has been in the conservation movement since its inception, described its growth in detail. For years, said Mr. Shipp, advocates of better health conditions have been demanding that congress take up the conservation of the greatest resource of all—human life, which will be the general topic at the Indianapolis convention.

"Each section of the country where the conservation congress has met heretofore has had one great conservation issue," said Mr. Shipp. "Indiana has no great forests left, no large waterways, no public lands, but the state is intensely interested in the greatest conservation question of all—the health and lives of the people of the country.

"Indiana is interested especially and vitally in preventing the pollution of her streams; in a purer domestic water supply; in the proper disposition of her sewage; in the prevention of accidents in her factories, on her railroads and in her mines, and, in general, in better conditions of life and health. Therefore, the national conservation congress comes here, to the center of population and the heart of trade, to discuss these questions. We shall bring to this forum some of the leading authorities of the nation, representatives of some of the greatest national associations, which are affiliated with us, and, it may be, some of the most noted health men of Europe, at least one of the three presidential candidates and leaders in thought and achievement throughout the United States.

"Out of the Indianapolis congress we expect a national sentiment to arise that will result in state and federal laws for the conservation of life and health and a more general observance by the people themselves of better methods of conserving human life."

RELATIONS REMAIN SAME AS FORMERLY
No Evidence of Change in Big Oil Companies.

New York, Sept. 19.—At the hearing in the suit of the Standard Oil Company against the Waters-Pierce Company, officers of several companies which were formerly Standard Oil subsidiaries were examined by counsel for the Waters-Pierce interests. The examination was meant to show that the relations between these companies and the Standard are the same today as they were before the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Samuel A. Drew was asked if he knew of John D. Rockefeller's having transferred any of his stock since the dissolution, and he said he did not.

SOME SEA SERPENT
California Reports Rare Creature of Mixed Characteristics.

Venice, Cal., Sept. 19.—W. H. Gilman, a fisherman, has brought in what experts say is a genuine sea serpent of the rarest variety. While casting off the burned pier at Ocean Park, Gilman hauled the creature in. It was about five feet long, black and green mottled, with a tail not unlike that of a shark. It had a dorsal fin and four feet shaped like those of a parrot. Its mouth resembled that of an Arizona Gila monster, while its head was a reproduction of a California horned toad.

YOUNG GIRL KILLED
Automobile Turned Over and Crushed Out Her Life.

Stilesville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Miss Ruth Mahaney, aged sixteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mahaney of Terre Haute, was killed and her mother was perhaps fatally injured in an automobile accident near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahaney were taking their daughter to Notre Dame to enter her at St. Mary's college. The automobile skidded and Mahaney lost control of it. The machine overturned and the occupants were pinned under it. One wheel rested on the girl's throat and Mahaney did not have enough strength to remove it. The girl was strangled before the machine could be moved by farmers.

Mrs. Mahaney suffered many bruises and Mr. Mahaney escaped with slight injuries. Mahaney is known at Terre Haute as Patsy Crackerjack, the popcorn king.

Rough-and-Tumble Fight.
Princeton, Ind., Sept. 19.—The fight between Chief of Police Haley and Attorney J. B. Gamble is being investigated by the grand jury, according to reports at the courthouse. Haley was testifying in a case and was being cross-examined by Gamble. The chief lost his temper, jumped from his seat and knocked the attorney down. The men were engaged in a rough-and-tumble fight when they were separated by Mayor Davidson and Prosecutor Trapet. An old grudge is said to be back of the fight.

Verdines Warmly Welcomed.
Paris, Sept. 19.—When Pierre Jules Verdine, the winner of the international cup at Chicago, arrived here he was greeted by the Aero club. Champagne flowed like water and the victor was kissed by men prominent in aviation.

WALTER F. BROWN
Member For Ohio Ousted by the Republican National Committee.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Officials of the department of justice admit that, to avoid an "immunity bath" fiasco similar to that in the beef trust prosecution, the "higher ups" of the harvester trust will probably not be called as witnesses in the trial now being held at Chicago.

George W. Perkins, Cyrus M. McCormick and Charles Deering are among those who it is officially announced will escape witness stand orders in the Chicago case now on trial. Others who may not be called unless the government deems it absolutely necessary to secure a verdict of dissolution against the harvester trust, are E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation, and Harold McCormick.

BIG VIADUCT

Will Shorten New England's Trade Route to the West.

New York, Sept. 19.—With the letting of a $2,000,000 contract for the building of foundations and masonry for the long Hell Gate viaduct of the New York Connecting railroad, a road to connect by rail the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Pennsylvania railroads, most of the work has been contracted for and construction will proceed rapidly. It is hoped that the road will be completed in two years at a cost estimated at $20,000,000. The road will be about nine miles long and is built with a view to facilitating the handling of traffic between New England and the west.

to agree to refrain from smoking on the school grounds. The superintendent hopes in time to be able to break up the habit altogether.

The fact that Edinburg and Rushville school officials are having trouble with the cigarette smokers led to an investigation here. Superintendent T. E. Fitzgibbon of the local schools, said in reply to a question that he thought the less publicity the cigarette habit had the better, but he says that high school boys do smoke at times and they not only smoke cigarettes but pipes as well.

For several years here the noses of the superintendent and of the principal, Samuel Wertz, have been trained to smell tobacco smoke. Neither smokes but he recognizes the odor in a second. When the principal smells tobacco smoke on a boy's clothes he has a talk with that boy and tells the boy that he must not bring pipe, tobacco or cigarettes to school. If the boy acts right about it the matter drops there. If the boy does not make the proper explanation or promise the principal "goes through him" and confiscates pipe, cigarette or "makin's." The confiscated tobacco and smoking implements go into the furnace. Pipe after pipe and cigarette after cigarette have found their way into the furnace of the school building here.

Teachers of the high school are instructed to notify the proper authorities if they catch a high school boy smoking. The boy is sure to get an invitation to talk over the situation after that and if he quits, well and good. If he does not quit smoking, he is very likely to quit school. About a half dozen boys were suspended here last year because they loved smoking better than they loved school.

The local school authorities do not think a whole lot of the proposition of having boys sign a pledge to stop smoking. They simply tell the boys that smoking is against the school law and violators of the law will be punished. The same thing is true of the fraternities and sororities here. The boys and girls were told that the Indiana State law prohibited these organizations. They were not begged to quit or asked to sign a pledge. They were told the law and informed that the law would be obeyed. In some schools the officials are still trying to argue with the pupils about the frats and sororities, but here the Greek letter epidemic is something of the past and no more trouble is anticipated from that source.

Many Columbus high school boys smoke and many of them will continue to smoke but they will have to be very careful about it because if the school authorities catch them at it a most unpleasant time will be in prospect.

ately after the ceremony they left on a lake trip, thinking that they had successfully evaded their friends.

Now Mr. Lee before entering upon his present work was one of the best newspaper men in Indiana, having been connected for several years with newspapers in Indianapolis and other cities of the State, and he should have known that good news can not be kept and in this instance this was the case. The Fort Wayne newspapers found out the particulars of the wedding almost as soon as it happened and on Saturday evening the announcement of the ceremony was published in the Fort Wayne papers.

Mr. Lee is one of the best known young men in Indiana and has a host of friends in all parts of the State. His bride is the daughter of Thomas A. Wilkinson, one of the best known of Fort Wayne's business men who served for two terms as sheriff of Allen county. She is a beautiful and talented young woman and one of the most popular young women of Fort Wayne. For several weeks Mr. and Mrs. Lee will be located in Indianapolis where Mr. Lee's business is located.

FLAG RAISING TO BE FEATURE

Rushville Has High Hopes of Taking Newcastle Into Camp in Second Game of Series.

The crowd that will accompany the Rushville team to Newcastle Sunday for the second game of the series with the Maxwell team will be as large, if not larger than the one that journeyed to the Rose City Sunday before last when the locals dropped a ten inning game to the champions of the Indiana State League. The fans here, because of the disappointment received last Sunday when rain interfered with the game, lost interest in the coming contest, but now the interest has been revived and a large crowd is assured.

The game will be the feature attraction of the season at the Maxwell park. All Newcastle promises to turn out for the pennant raising program. The Arlington band will accompany the local team and pull for a victory over the champions of the State league. The game should be a battle as both teams are evenly matched.

A victory for Rushville means much since Newcastle won the first game of the series. Manager Maibaugh believes his team can turn the trick and will go there confident of bringing home the bacon. The local team is assured of a square deal in the way of an umpire as Harry Geisel, the Central League umpire will officiate. Geisel was to have umpired here last Sunday. The present arrangements call for the special train to leave here at 12:30 o'clock and returning leave Newcastle at 6 o'clock.

Commenting on the coming game the Newcastle Courier says:

The real big base ball day in Newcastle will occur next Sunday, when not only the second game in the Rushville series will be played, but the pennant, the trophy of victory in the Indiana State league, will be raised and flung to the breezes from the big flagstaff in center field. A band concert previous to the pennant raising will also be included in the program.

Manager Williams received the pennant Tuesday from Indianapolis. It is a gray and red affair, appropriately lettered, and is a trophy to be proud of. The officials of the Indiana State league, including the managers of the various clubs, will be invited to participate in the ceremony.

RESIDENTS KICK.

Complaints have been made to the police of a crowd of boys who play ball in the streets near the corner of Perkins and Eighth streets. The man who complained was hit by a ball yesterday and suffered severely from the injury. He told the police that women could not pass the corner with safety when the boys were playing there.
